GUNSHOT VICTIM NOW IMPROVING

Pearson Urges Closer Western Ties

Nobel Peace Prize Winner Warns of Split by Russians

OTTAWA (UP) — Nobel Peace Prize winner Lester B. Pearson believes world peace is "precariously" balanced, that Western prestige has suffered from Sputnik, and that Russia would like to split the Western Alliance by a separate diplomatic deal with the United States.

Lester B. Pearson

But the former Canadian Minister of External Affairs, who as a candidate for the Liberal Party leadership is also a possible future Canadian Prime Minister, does not believe that the Turkish-Syria situation in the Near East need break out in a shooting war.

He also is convinced that the present tense world situation makes it all the more necessary for the nations in the Western Alliance to draw together more closely than ever.

Pearson expressed his views in an exclusive interview with United Press. It was the first such interview given by him since his acclaim a week ago as this year's winner of the Nobel Peace Prize.

Pearson Answers

The questions and Pearson's answers follow:

Question— Is the Turkish-Syrian situation more dangerous than was the British-French Suez crisis? If so in what way?

Answer— The Turkish-Syrian situation — dangerous though it may be—can only be compared to the Suez crisis if fighting actually breaks out. There is not the same kind of bitter hostility that existed between Israel and Egypt.

Q.— Would you regard the world peace balance as precarious, or what other adjective would you use?

A.— Peace is still balanced on terror — fear of mutual destruction — because of the nuclear weapons that would be used in all out war. Precarious can be used as a word to describe that kind of balance and our objective must be to find something more stable.

Q.— Do you believe Russian policy is aiming towards a bi-lateral pact on security or disarmament with the United States?

A.— I think that the Russians now would like to work out a deal of some kind, on a purely division of power basis with the United States. They have always been attracted by that kind of arrangement.

Q.— What is the effect of Sputnik on the validity of the principle of collective security upon which the United Nations is based?

U.N. Seems Strengthened

A.— It seems to me not to invalidate, but, on the contrary, to strengthen it.

Q.— In your opinion has Sputnik weakened the Western Alliance? Is Tito's trade deal with East Ger-

HAIR-TRIGGER MIDDLE EAST — Here's a geographic look at highlights of the tense Middle East situation. In manpower, Syria has about 35,000 under arms, with maybe as many as 3,000 more from Egypt. Turkey may have a million. The Soviet charges that 50,000 of them are massed on the northern border of Syria, and that the U. S. is trying to goad the Turks into attacking.

Phone Switch In Two Areas Is Successful

Bell Telephone customers in Donora and the Fairhope-Arnold City area switched over to dial service yesterday "without difficulty."

J. Lawrence Buchanan, district manager for the Bell Co., said there were no reports of trouble as the FRontier dial office went into operation in Donora and the unique Gypsy mobile office started accepting calls in Fairhope-Arnold City.

"This was the finest switchover we've had in the district," said Buchanan. "We think our boys did a great job of installing the equipment."

Buchanan said the new Donora dial office carried an unusually large load during the first day.

"It seems the novelty attracted everyone to the telephone," Buchanan said.

During a two-hour period yesterday, telephone calls out of Donora were 500 per cent over normal. This created an overcrowding of trunk lines and delayed some out-of-town calls.

Much the same situation existed with the Gypsy mobile office located in a semi-trailer. The Gypsy equipment is serving about 300 customers until the proposed Belle Vernon dial exchange is completed.

Buchanan said calls were expected to return to normal today and he predicted no trouble at either the FRontier or Gypsy exchange.

Sanity Hearing For Fayette Man

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP)—A sanity commission hearing was in prospect today for a 30-year-old former Army officer who admitted during the week end he shot and killed his father.

Joseph Hunt, a veteran of both World War II and the Korean conflict, told Fayette County Coroner W. Ralston McGee "I killed my father."

Hunt formerly insisted he couldn't recall what had happened because he was "too drunk" but under questioning at a coroner's inquest Saturday admitted the slaying. His service record showed he had been shell shocked at one time.

18 Nations in Cairo to Plan For 'Solidarity'

CAIRO, Egypt (UP)—Delegates from 18 nations met here today in an attempt to organize Afro-Asian public opinion into a cohesive and instrumental force in world affairs.

The delegates were of all political shades but mostly left of center. They were meeting for three days to make final plans for a giant Afro-Asian "solidarity conference" to be held in December, probably in Cairo.

Organizers of the conference invited 36 nationalities to the meeting which they said would be the "first effort on the peoples level to carry out the Bandung principles."

This was a reference to the Bandung Conference of 1954 at which Afro-Asian nations called for the elimination of colonialism and United Nations membership for all. A spokesman for today's meeting said it would try to organize a permanent secretariat to carry out the work.

The conference organizers frankly described the future organization as a propaganda machine for expressing the voice of Afro-Asian public opinion, representing two-thirds of the world's population.

The 18 nations with delegates here today included all Arab states except Saudi Arabia, Yemen and Morocco. Others were from the Soviet Union, Mongolia, Red China, Viet Nam, India, Indonesia, Cambodia, Japan, Burma and Turkey.

Schoonmaker Traffic Snarl Begins Today

The west entrance to Monessen was blocked off today as city workmen began tearing up Schoonmaker Ave. from 14th to 17th Sts.

The no-traffic ban snarled traffic entering the city and forced a long detour for travellers from Belle Vernon, Charleroi and other western points.

The detour also forced the Westside Motor Transit Co. to revise its schedule slightly.

A spokesman for the firm said that buses will leave the city daily for Belle Vernon via the Monessen Highway. At the Western Pennsylvania Bank in Belle Vernon, passengers will be transferred to further points, including Charleroi and Fairhope.

Monessen passengers may also reach Charleroi during the day by catching the Donora bus. Oddly enough, the trip takes only five minutes longer, according to a bus company spokesman.

From 6 p. m. on, all Monessen to Charleroi bus traffic will be routed through Donora.

The bus spokesman said that a new time schedule will be distributed, probably tomorrow. He said the main inconvenience during the detour will be the necessity to transfer for points further than the Belle Vernon bank.

During the day, buses will leave the Belle Vernon bank for Monessen at 25 minutes after the hour. Incoming buses from Fairhope and Charleroi will leave their respective points at 15 minutes after the hour.

The detour was set up to permit the concrete paving of Schoonmaker Ave. by the Frank Donatelli Co., Pittsburgh. Schoonmaker Ave. carries Route 906 through the city.

At present, city crews are tearing up the old brick paving. It is hoped that actual concrete construction will begin soon.

Official Calls Steel Price Boost 'Modest'

WASHINGTON (UP) — A. B. Homer, president of Bethlehem Steel Corp., told Senate investigators today the company's $5.20-a-ton increase in steel prices this summer was "modest" and completely justified.

He said in testimony before the Senate's anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee that an increase of more than $8 a ton was warranted by higher labor, transportation and other costs to the company.

But, faced with "competition from the rest of the industry," he said, the company held the increase to "the competitive level" and absorbed extra costs of $2.80 a ton—"or something over 35 million dollars a year."

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), is investigating the basis for the recent steel price increases and why all major steel producers raised prices at roughly the same time and by roughly the same amounts.

Kefauver Statement

Kefauver said in an opening statement that the group wanted to find out from Homer why Bethlehem, the second largest producer, seems always to follow the price increase lead of the United States Steel Corp.

"The factual data in the record indicates that the recent $6 increase by U.S. Steel will result in approximately a 500-million dollars yearly increase to direct buyers of steel.

"The seriousness of such an increase," he said, "is multiplied

Woman Struck By Car Here Over Week End

A woman pedestrian was struck by a car in one of two traffic accidents in Monessen over the week end, police reported today.

Mrs. Florence Opar, 360 Indiana Ave., Monessen, was taken to Charleroi-Monessen Hospital with head, arm and leg injuries after being struck by a car on Rebecca Ave. Saturday night.

Driver of the car, Frank Weibl, 736 East Seneca, Monessen, told police Mrs. Opar walked into the path of his car. She was treated by a local physician and then hospitalized.

In the other accident, cars operated by Charles Pidich, 205 McKee Ave., Monessen, and Charles Metz, West Brownsville, collided near Third St. and Schoonmaker Ave. early this morning.

An occupant in the Pidich machine, Joyce Barbour, 352 Carroll Ave., Donora, told police she suffered injuries to her right side as a result of the collision.

Metz, according to police, assumed responsibility for the mishap.

Fayette Jury Considers Seven Violent Deaths

A coroner's jury in Fayette County considered seven violent deaths on Saturday.

The six-man jury recommended a charge of murder in one case, suggested that another murder defendant be held for grand jury action, and held two motorists responsible in separate double traffic fatalities.

A charge of murder was recommended against 19-year old William Plichta of Brownfield in connection with the Oct. 5 slaying of Thomas W. Brownfield. Chief County Detective James Eadie testified that Plichta has signed a confession to the killing.

Grand jury action was recommended against Joseph Hunt, 31,, Uniontown who is accused of slaying his father in their home Oct. 16.

A charge of involuntary manslaughter was filed against Raymond Albani, 38, of Fairchance as a result of an auto accident on Sept. 10 which claimed two lives.

Two counts of involuntary manslaughter were filed against Charles A. Shallenberger, 17 of Connellsville as a result of an accident which also took two lives. The jury declared the youth was "traveling too fast for conditions."

Five Tarentum Doctors Protest

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Five Tarentum, Pa., area physician, in a letter to the Allegheny County Medical Society, charge the United Mine Workers Welfare fund with hiding a "desire for dictatorship."

The doctors, C. T. Rollins, H. Fishkin, F. X. Bauer, H. B. Emerson, R. H. Stockdale, L. W. Rugh, and M. O. Colwell, said it was inconceivable fund administrators could cloak this desire with a claim of "improving efficiency."

"It would be similar," they wrote, "to Blue Cross and Blue Shield or other health insurance programs suddenly announcing that henceforth no family thus insured would have the right to go to a physician or hospital of its choice when illness strikes, but must accept the doctor or institution the insurance company chooses."

Road Is Classed 'Limited'

Relocated Route 31 has been converted to a "limited access" highway, it was reported today.

A spokesman for the state Highway Department said the limited access plan for the four-lane road was approved on Sept. 11 by Gov. George M. Leader.

As a result, the highway will be accessible only at certain designated points.

The limited access plan had been opposed by a group of citizens owning property adjacent to the highway. The group had secured legal counsel and had threatened to seek an injunction to block the plan.

Under the approved plan, no business places will be accessible directly from the highway. It is believed most commercial buildings along the completed sections of relocated Route 31 will be affected by the limited access ruling.

Letters Mailed

A spokesman for the Highway Department said that letters have been mailed to interested citizens informing them of the limited access ruling.

No deadline has been set for conversion of the highway to limited access, but one highway official predicted it might begin next year.

Several interchanges and marginal roads will have to be constructed before the limited access system goes into effect.

Damages, if any, to property along the highway will be determined at a later date by appraisers, the highway department spokesman said. Business places will be permitted along marginal roads, it was stated.

Four sections of Route 31 have already been completed. Five remaining sections are now under construction.

When completed, the four-lane highway will carry traffic from a point near New Stanton to Route 40 near Washington, Pa.

The Highway Department said the limited access decision was necessary to fit Route 31 into the federal system of highways. It also argued that the safety factor will be greatly improved.

Woman Is Found Dead in Her Car

BEAVER FALLS (UP) — Mrs. Geneva Montgomery, 29, Midland, Pa., was found dead Sunday in her automobile parked in an isolated section of Brady's Run Park near here.

Mrs. Montgomery had been missing since Friday. Police said a hose led from the exhaust pipe into the front seat of the car.

Wallace Urban Shot by Wife After Quarrel

Wallace Urban, 40, a Monessen furniture store salesman who lives in Lynnwood, was reported in "satisfactory" condition today in West Penn Hospital, Pittsburgh, with a gunshot wound of the chest which police say was inflicted by his wife, Hazel, 44, over "domestic troubles."

The victim was blasted with a .16 gauge shotgun as he was sleeping in his home at 810 Fayette Rd. Saturday morning about 2:30.

He was taken to Charleroi-Monessen Hospital for treatment and yesterday was transferred to the Pittsburgh hospital where he underwent an operation.

West Penn authorities said this morning that Urban's condition was improving.

Mother in Jail

Mrs. Urban, a mother of two teenage daughters, was lodged in Fayette County jail on an open charge. Police said if the husband recovers, Mrs. Urban will be charged with assault with intent to kill.

Mrs. Urban told police yesterday that she first planned to put rat poison in her husband's coffee.

Police quoted Mrs. Urban as saying that she made up her mind to kill her husband several days ago because of his "drinking and running around."

"I first planned to put rat poison in his coffee. Then I decided a shotgun would be quicker," she told police.

Treated in 1956

Urban reportedly came home early Saturday morning, exchanged a few words with his wife, then went to bed. Following the shooting, Mrs. Urban heard her husband groan and immediately called police.

On the way to jail she told police "I'd be happy if he got better."

Mrs. Urban said she bought the shotgun and shells in a Bentleyville store.

Mrs. Urban, according to police, was treated in Bellvue Hospital, Pittsburgh, in July, 1956, for a nervous condition.

Six Are Hurt In Series of Traffic Crashes

Six persons were injured, one seriously, in a series of traffic mishaps in the district over the weekend, state police reported today.

Lawrence W. Roberts, 20, of 234 Second St., California, is in "critical" condition in Charleroi-Monessen Hospital after suffering head injuries, brush burns and shock in an accident early yesterday morning on Route 88 in Stockdale.

Police said the youth was an occupant of a car operated by Frank G. Rebolt, 23, Cleveland. The vehicle failed to make a curve on the highway and shot through about 500 feet of brush and trees along the road.

The driver was also admitted to the hospital and today was listed in "fair" condition. He received multiple cuts and bruises.

Police said the car was demol-

Pricedale Man Stages Short Freedom Break

A Pricedale man, Thomas C. Brown, is one of two inmates of Centre County jail facing additional charges today after staging separate jail breaks that netted them only a short lived freedom.

Brown was captured Saturday only 45 minutes after he opened the lock on his cell with a homemade key, climbed a 20-foot wall and drove off in a stolen car.

He was captured in the Seven Mountains area after the stolen car ran out of gas.

Brown was placed in the institution early last month on burglary charges. When released from Centre County he will face burglary charges for series of alleged crimes in Westmoreland County. One of the charges against him is the theft of a car belonging to Mon Valley Motors Inc., Monessen.

The other escape Saturday was made by Lewis Corssley, 20, Lock Haven. He walked away from a mopping detail. He was captured near his home an hour and a half later.

Restaurant Is Burglarized Here

An undetermined amount of money was taken when Marie's Restaurant at 520 Schoonmaker Ave., Monessen, was burglarized sometime yesterday, police reported today.

Entrance was gained by breaking in the back door of the establishment operated by Marie Sulick.

She reported about $16 missing from the cash register. An undetermined amount of coins was also taken from a pinball machine.

Police discovered the burglary on a routine check about 12:30 this morning. The restaurant was closed yesterday.

Queen Gets N. Y. Welcome

NEW YORK (UP) — Queen Elizabeth II rode up New York's canyon of heroes today in a deluge of confetti and tickertape. It was the biggest celebrity reception here since Gen. Douglas MacArthur returned from Japan.

Curbside crowds of hundreds of thousands cheered the 31-year-old monarch and her consort Prince Philip as their royal motorcade moved slowly in brilliant sunshine from the battery to City Hall. The windows of skyscrapers along the route were jammed with office workers who scattered tons of confetti, ticker tape and torn telephone directories on her bubbletop limousine.

It was the Queen's first visit to New York, the city she said she had "wanted to see since I was a child." It was also the first ticker tape parade ever accorded a British monarch.

New York's informal shouts of "Hi, Liz" brought the Queen's broadest smile and the jauntiest wave she has exhibited on her six-day visit to the United States. Fashion conscious New York women eyed her rust-colored ensemble trimmed with regal white er-

Research Fund Cuts Blasted By Senator

WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. A S. Mike Monroney (D-Okla.) charges that a 170-million dollar cut recently ordered in military research funds would be "an open invitation to disaster" for the United States.

The cut, which came to light Sunday, was ordered by former Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson on Aug. 17.

It would amount to a 10 per cent rollback in military research and development funds, including in part funds spent on space studies.

Monroney, whose views carry great weight with his Democratic colleagues, demanded the administration cancel the order. He said it was an example of how the Russians were able to put a satellite in space ahead of the United States.

At Cape Canaveral, Fla., meanwhile, scientists were reported readying a Vanguard missile for test firing today. The missile, which eventually will boost a U.S. satellite into orbit, was to have been tested late last week but was held up for either technical or weather reasons.

Furnas Attacks Wilson

Wilson also came under attack from Clifford C. Furnas, former assistant secretary for research and development who said the United States might have been able to put a baby moon in space two years ago if the Army had not been overruled.

Other developments in the missile-satellite field:

—The Soviet Sputnik faced great hazards as it circled the earth for the 17th day. The Red moon headed into a heavy meteor shower that could smash it to pieces or knock it off course, the London Sunday Observer reported.

—Aviation Week magazine said U.S. radar equipment in Turkey has been spotting Russian missile secrets for two years. The magazine said the radar disclosed that the Russians began firing developmental stage intercontinental ballistics missiles (ICBM) last summer.

Calls For New Look

—Five members of the House Government Operations Subcommittee on Military Operations call for a new look at this country's cold war techniques.

—Prime Minister Harold MacMillan of Britain was reported planning to urge in his talks with President Eisenhower this week closer cooperation in exchanging scientific information between the two countries.

—Japanese Ambassador Koichiro Asakai said the Soviet space success had "punctured" his country's faith in American scientific superiority over Russia.

mine and set off with flashing diamond jewelry.

Handsome bareheaded "Prince Phil," whose car followed the Queen's, flashed a smile that thrilled the Wall Street's secretaries who had been given an extra-long lunch hour to attend the parade.

The Queen stepped into the special limousine at the Battery at 11.22 a. m. She and her party arrived aboard a U. S. Army ferry which had brought them from their train on Staten Island in the company of Gov. Averell Harriman and British commonwealth dignitaries

Elizabeth's own comments on her first view of the towers and turrets of Manhattan were in everyday American slang.

"Whee!" she exclaimed. "How exciting! I didn't realize the buildings were so closely knit."

The weather was as near perfect as a queen could wish. The sky was a soft blue with only a trace of clouds and the temperature climbed toward the mid-50's. A brisk fall wind was blowing.

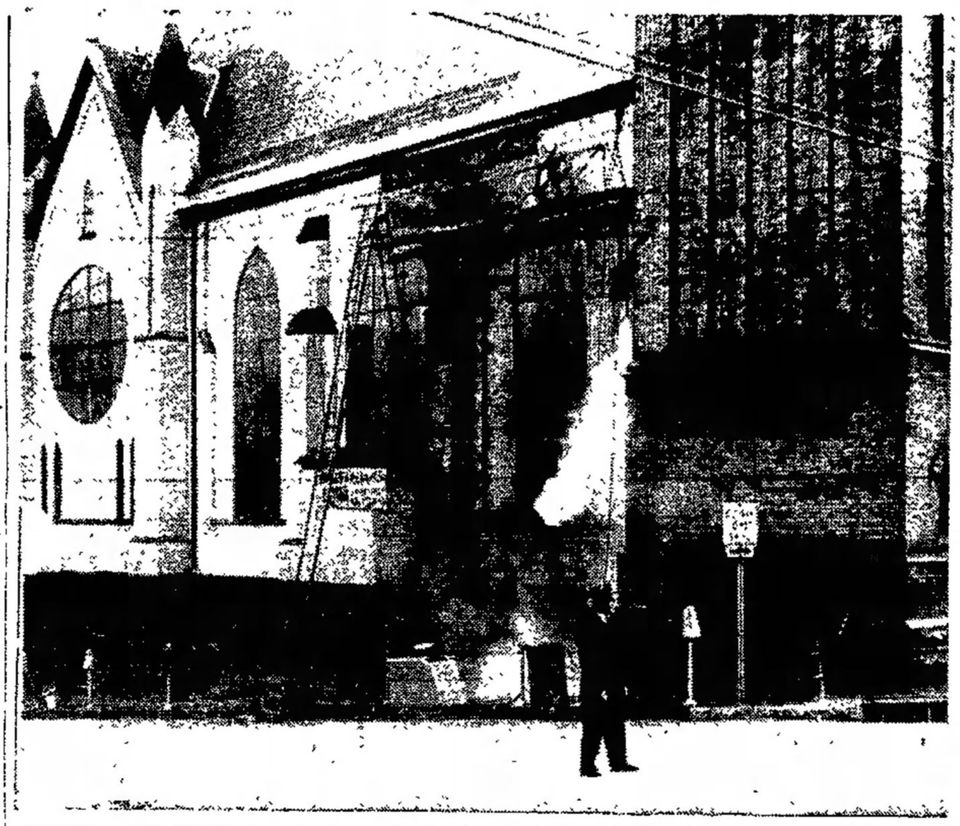
Her brief route to City Hall for Mayor Robert F. Wagner's official welcome to the city called up one of the heaviest forces of police, federal security officers, firemen and first aid personnel in memory.

Not since MacArthur was cheered by 7,500 000 persons in 1951 had the city put on such a dazzling show. The entire financial district, which Elizabeth glimpsed as she passed Trinity Church at the head of Wall Street, was decked with Union Jacks.

The Queen and Prince Philip said goodbye to President and Mrs. Eisenhower late Sunday night to conclude a four-day visit in Washington. Their special train was shunted onto a siding early today at Camp Kilmer, N.J., and the royal couple slept through the morning hours just on the outskirts of Metropolitan New York.

Elizabeth's departure from Washington prompted State Department officials to give Americans a hearty pat on the back for their conduct during the royal visit. And department Chief of Protocol Wiley T. Buchanan Jr. said the Queen's tour had given the world a fresh demonstration of Anglo-American friendship

At St. George, Staten Island, the Queen and her party after being welcomed by Gov. Averell Harriman, were to board a specially fitted Army ferry for the trip across New York Harbor, past the Statue of Liberty, to the lower end of Manhattan.



CHURCH FACE LIFTING — St. Leonard's R. C. Church, for a half-century one of the city's largest church buildings, is currently being washed with steam and chemicals. It's part of an improvement program, which will include a complete remodelling of the interior.

St. Leonard's Church Undergoes Complete Face-Lifting Program

One of Monessen's oldest church buildings — St. Leonard's — is undergoing a complete face lifting.

The structure, one of the largest Roman Catholic churches in the district, is currently being washed down with steam and chemicals. Later, the half-century old building will have its exterior walls sandblasted and pointed.

It's all part of a major improvement program designed to make St. Leonard's church as "magnificent as it was 50 years ago."

The huge building has had few improvements during its first half-century. But it has always been regarded as one of the city's finest church edifices.

Improvement Program

This past summer, Rev. Martin J. O'Toole, parish administrator, embarked on an improvement program. The church roof was repaired and copper and aluminum gutters were installed.

Recently workers for the Marianna-Richards Co., Pittsburgh, began spraying the church with chemicals to wash away 50 years of accumulated dirt. Even many of the parish's oldest members were astonished when the bricks turned out to be white.

"This is only the first phase of the cleaning" Father O'Toole said. "The exterior walls will now be pointed and sandblasted. When completed, the job will make St. Leonard's look like a new church structure."

Father O'Toole said that projected plans call for the cleaning of the parish parochial school, convent and rectory at a later date.

The interior of the church isn't being overlooked either Already a new lighting system has been installed.

Probably next summer, the interior will be completely remodeled. Father O'Toole said that plans have already been prepared but he wants to surprise his parishioners on the extent of the project.

The "washing" will cost St. Leonard $9,000. The roof repairs amounted to several thousand more.

"We hope to have the money to begin our interior work next summer." said the parish administrator.

when it is realized that the full impact of this increase has not as yet trickled down to the consuming public."

Homer said Bethlehem hopes that by limiting its increase to $5.20 it has not "too seriously endangered" its ability to maintain a profit margin of roughly 13 per cent—the average of all industries—needed to attack investors for needed future expansion.

Expansion Cost Tremendous

Estimating that a 50 to 60 million ton increase in steel capacity will be needed in the next 15 years to keep pace with the nation's expanding economy. Homer said the cost of expansion will be "tremendous" and can be met only by company earnings and new borrowing.

"Unless we can demonstrate to the investor that we can operate at a profit ratio at least as high as the average of other manufacturing industries," he said, "we are not going to be able to obtain the necessary financing at reasonable rates."

The steel executive rejected suggestions that Bethlehem should have cut prices last summer to encourage increased production and sales "as some sort of a check, or brake, on inflation."

For one thing, he said, such arguments make the false assumption that steel companies are not now operating at satisfactory levels. Bethlehem, he said, which is holding 10 to 15 per cent of its capacity in reserve for emergencies, is producing more steel than in any year prior to 1951.

Says Price Low

Another false assumption, he said is that a lower price for steel would bring an increased demand for steel products.

The price of our steel is so low—about seven cents a pound—that it accounts for a very small part of the cost incurred by our customers in producing finished products," Homer said.

"Thus, a $5-a-ton reduction, say, in our steel prices last July would not have had any significant effect in increasing the sales by our customers of those finished products."

For example, he said, a $5-a-ton reduction would have shaved the price of an automobile from $2,630 to $2,620.

Steel-buying Record

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP) — Steel-buying will hit a record 85-million net tons this year, Steel Magazine said today.

About 84-million tons will come from mill shipments, the rest from inventories. 1956 sales were about 6-million tons lower.

Steel inventories were 20-million tons at the beginning of the year, after a 4-million-ton addition in 1956. By mid-year they had risen to 22-million tons.

The one-million ton reduction in inventories expected in 1957 should leave a 19-million-ton stock at year-end—about three months usage at current rates.

Some analysts say this is high. They expect the inventory reduction to continue in the first half of 1958.

Need for large inventories is eliminated, Steel said, with mills able to make prompt delivery on all forms of steel, except heavy plates and structural shapes. Inventory reduction is expected to be reflected in apathy on the part of buyers.

Machine tool and plant equipment makers are experiencing slow orders in the fourth quarter. They expect an upturn in 1958—probably in the third quarter.

Backlog reduction has been going on since the second quarter. Shipments, therefore, will be as good or better this year as they have been in most previous years, the trade magazine said.

Many producers consider the current slump as a breathing spell in which to consolidate their gains of the last two "abnormally high" years.

Consumer hard goods prices are expected to increase slightly over the next six months, according to a Steel survey. Price patterns will vary from industry to industry.

Steel Magazine predicted a 4 to 6 per cent price rise for most 1958 autos; TV sets up 5 to 10 per cent; washing machines up 2 to 5 per cent.

State Municipalities in Final Phases of Election

Mayor to Be Chosen In 21 Cities

By UNITED PRESS

Both major parties today moved into the final phases of their drives to spur voter interest in the Nov. 5 elections for control of municipal and county offices in Pennsylvania.

Political leaders consider the off-year elections a test of party strength and an opportunity to bulwark their organizations in preparation for the 1958 statewide campaigns, when Pennsylvanians will elect a new governor, U. S. senator and other officials.

More than 5,406,000 Pennsylvanians are eligible to vote this year. Democrats continued their whittling away at the traditional Republican enrollment, with unofficial figures indicating the GOP now has a margin of only about 333,000 statewide.

A United Press survey listed Republican registrations at 2,835,847 and Democratic, 2,498,803, or a lead of 337,044.

An independent survey by Commonwealth Secretary James A Finnegan gave the GOP a 337,440 edge.

Some counties reversed their enrollments. Beaver County, for example, favored Democrats in registration for the first time in 150 years, with the current listing showing 43,443 Democrats to the Republicans' 42,877.

No statewide offices are at stake this year, but veterans organizations across the Commonwealth have been conducting campaigns of their own for a big turnout at the polls for a Korean bonus, one of two proposed constitutional amendments on the state ballot.

Local Issues Involved

The elections are for thousands of offices throughout the state, including mayoralties, judgeships, borough, township, city and county posts and school boards.

Mayors will be chosen in Pittsburgh and Scranton and in 21 of the 47 third-class cities of Beaver Falls, Bethlehem, Butler, Clarion, Connellsville, Corry, Duquesne, Franklin, Greensburg, Hazleton, Jeannette, Lancaster, McKeesport, Meadville, Monessen, Nanticoke, New Kensington, Pittston, Pottsville, Shamokin and Sunbury.

Highlighting the mayoralty contests are the bids of Democratic Mayors David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh and James T. Hanlon of Scranton for fourth terms. Lawrence's Republican opponent is John Drew, a former appointed judge, while Hanlon is opposed by Harry A. Lewis, former city councilman.

Two special elections, resulting from death or retirement, will be held in conjunction with the regular balloting.

Democrat G. Wetherby Preston, Oreland mathematician, and state Rep. John A. Lafore Jr., Haverford Republican, are fighting for Montgomery County's 13th Congressional District seat vacated by former GOP Cong. Samuel K. McConnell Jr. of Wynnewood. McConnell stepped out last Sept. 1 to become director of the United Cerebral Palsy Assn., New York.

County Chairman Candidate

On the state legislative level, voters in Blair County's second district will pick a successor to the late Rep. Daniel H. Erb, Hollidaysburg Republican who died shortly before the 1957 Legislature adjourned. The opponents are J. Richard Hartman, Martinsburg Democrat, and Joseph Ramsey, Tyrone, county GOP chairman.

In addition to the Korean Bonus question, another proposed amendment to the state's 83-year-old Constitution would extend absentee voting privileges to certain civilians.

If voters approve the referenda, enabling legislation would still be required by the 1959 Legislature before they could become effective.

In the case of the Korean Bonus, voters' approval Nov. 5 would merely authorize the creation of an additional bonded indebtedness of 150 million dollars, the estimated cost of the payment to approximately 335,000 Pennsylvania veterans of the conflict. Payments could not be made, however, until a succeeding Legislature enacts tax measures sufficient to amortize the amount borrowed.

The proposal for liberalized voting rights would extend the franchise to qualified electors unavoidably absent from the state or county of their residence, or to those unable to go to their polling places because of illness or physical disability. The next Legislature would have to spell out in detail changes to be made in the state Elections Code.

CSTC Professor Is Convention Chairman

Anthony T. Stavaski, associate professor of Industrial Arts at California State Teachers College, will serve as program chairman this week when the Industrial Arts Association of Pennsylvania meets in its fifth annual convention in Harrisburg.

General theme of the convention, which is scheduled for October 25 and 26 in the Scottish Rites Temple of Harrisburg, is "Our Cultural Heritage."

Among the convention speakers will be Dr. Walter R. Williams, director of Industrial Arts for the state of Florida, Dr. Stanley J. Pawelek, supervisor of Industrial Arts in Baltimore, Maryland, Public Schools, Dr. Lynwood Linngenfelter, director of Public Relations at Millersville State Teachers College, Dr. Kenneth F. Perry, president of the American Industrial Arts Association, and Dr. William E. Warner, professor of Industrial Arts at Ohio State University.

Four members of the Industrial Arts staff at California also have places on the program. They are Dr. Shriver L. Coover, director of the Industrial Arts Department; Ralph L. Charney, assistant professor of Industrial Arts, Gaston Lebois, assistant professor of Industrial Arts; and Irvin Shutsy, director of Student Teaching.

Dr. Robert D. Goldman, Director of Fine and Industrial Arts for Philadelphia, is president of the state organization.

Stavaski, who serves as vice president, has long worked through both national and state organizations for the improvement of Industrial Arts teaching. The Pennsylvania State Industrial Arts Association last year recognized Stavaski's contribution by making him the recipient of their first distinguished service award.

McDonald Says Sputnik May Be Jobless Answer

PITTSBURGH (UP) — United Steelworkers President David J. McDonald told a weekend conference of USW officers from the Homestead - McKeesport - Clairton district that Russia's Sputnik may be the answer to solving this country's unemployment problem.

"We have an awful lot of scared cookies in Washington," McDonald said. "The Russians have solved their unemployment problem by stepping up their industry and scientific development. If that's the way to keep pace, then let's build space platforms and shoot rockets to the moon."

The union leader said recent talks with industrialists here and in the nation's capital have convinced him that big business feels the day of a production spiral has passed.

"If we must increase production to keep pace, let's do it and give more people jobs," he added.

McDonald also said the USW is not invincible and has many weaknesses, mostly do to a laxity of political action.

Therefore, he said he soon will propose to USW executive officers that the union encourage steelworkers to enter politics, especially on a statewide basis.

Dent Is Speaker At County Liquor Dealers Banquet

State Sen. John H. Dent, Jeannette, delivered the main address at the 21st annual banquet of the Westmoreland County Retail Liquor Dealers Association last night at Twin Coaches. A near capacity crowd attended.

Associated with the organization since its formation, Dent advised the dealers to continue "sticking together." He then cited facts and figures which traced the progress the organization has made.

Herman Mihalich, Monessen, president, was toastmaster and Atty. Frank P. Ezerski Jr., also of Monessen, delivered the welcome address.

The Rev. John V. Govrusik, St. John Divine Russian Orthodox Church, Monessen, delivered the invocation and benediction.

One of the features was the presentation of flowers by Sen. Dent to Toni Bates, "Miss Page One" of Pennsylvania.

Mihalich also introduced past presidents and present officers of the organization.

Educators Plan for Workshop on Thursday

The third professional workshop co-sonsored by the Monessen school district and the Monessen Education Association will be held this Thursday afternoon. Visiting educators will serve as consultants.

Approximately 150 public school teachers and administrators will attend the workshop. Regular classes will be dismissed for the afternoon.

Serving as consultants for the program will be Dr. Clifford Hooker, professor of education at the University of Pittsburgh; Dr. K. Fife Sterrett, director of student teachers in secondary schools for California State Teachers College; Merle O. Covell, directo. of elementary education at California State Teachers College; Connard Salm, Jr., representative of the Washington National Insurance Co., and Miss Tynne Hanninen, Monessen speech correctionist.

Following lunch in the cafeteria, a general meeting will be held in the high school auditorium from 1 to 1:30 p.m.

Two fifty-minute workshop periods will follow, and will be summarized in a closing general session at 3:30 p.m. The six-topic program will be repeated, enabling each teacher to participate in two discussion groups.

The program lists the following:

"What Can We Do for the Gifted Child at the Elementary Level?" (Mr. Covell, consultant; Mrs. Helen Dolan, chairman; Miss Esther Johnson, recorder.)

"What Can We Do for the Gifted Child at the Secondary Level?" (Dr. Penn, consultant; John P. Regan, Jr., chairman; Mrs. Mary Elinitsas, recorder.)

"The Teacher and Public Relations." (Dr. Sterrett, consultant; Miss Mary Butler, chairman; John Dacko, recorder.)

"Our Washington National Insurance Program." (Mr. Salm, consultant; John Duronio, chairman; Thomas Bicanich, recorder.

"Legal Rights of Teachers." (Dr. Hooker, chairman; Miss Mary Johnston, chairman; Mrs. Anna Makovich, recorder.)

"The Junior and Community College Level of Education." (Miss Hanninen, consultant; Dr. Joseph Pallone, chairman; Miss Virginia Fallon, recorder.)

Henry Furio, high school principal is chairman of the committee in charge of the workshop, and Miss Olive B. Pannabaker is secretary.

Other members of the planning Committee are Dr. Joseph Pallone, superintendent of schools; Clifford Jones, president of the Monessen Education Association; Miss Eleanor Shutterly, Miss Mary Butler, Mrs. Marilyn Simpson, Alfred E. Hazelbaker, Bernard Weiss, and Francis Vescio.

Charleroi Firemen Fund Drive Opens

A campaign to raise funds for a new Charleroi Volunteer Fire Dept. building will begin tomorrow and extend through Oct. 30.

Fire Marshall Harold Humphries, campaign chairman, said that the firemen hope to raise $100,000 during the eight-day public subscription.

The money will go toward a new building which will cost an estimated $200,000.

Humphries said the firemen will visit every home in Charleroi during the campaign.

Installation Is Feature at St. Leonard's PTA

Installation of officers highlighted the meeting of St. Leonard Parent Teacher Association yesterday afternoon at the parish hall. Invocation before the serving of the 5:30 dinner was offered by the Rev. Martin J. O'Toole.

Joseph Campus extended the welcome and introduced Thomas Preston, toastmaster.

Father O'Toole conducted installation ceremonies for Harold Wilkins, president; Mrs. Louise Treater, recording secretary; Mrs. Elsie Metzger, treasurer; Mrs. Rose Mary Knox, financial secretary; and five directors, Joseph Campus, Mrs. Mary Ann D'Alonzo, James Frey, Mrs. Betty Agnolucci and Reno Moncini.

After the installation Mrs. Margaret Wilkins presented students of St. Leonard School in vocal selections, instrumental numbers and readings.

The Rev. Francis Tassey, chaplain of the Pennsylvania Training School, was guest speaker. He was well received in his talk, which concerned relationship of parent and child.

Mrs. Louise Treater presented a gift to Joseph Campus, retiring president.

A guest prize was won by William Peshok. The Rev. John L. Conway asked the benediction.

Mrs. Treater was the chairman of the committee in charge which included Elizabeth Picchiarini, Mrs. Metzger, Gilda Tegnalia, Irene Campus and Margaret Wilkins.

Russians Prod Us To a Reappraisal

EVENTS in Washington indicate that the success of the Russians in launching an earth satellite has shocked officials into a reappraisal of the American program in the rocket and missile fields.

When Moscow announced the successful firing charge of the missiles program with the inofficials, from the President on down, to belittle the importance of what the Soviets had done and to imply that there was no reason for this nation to change its plans and program.

Complacency is of course exceedingly dangerous in any game played with the Russians. We think it is equally dangerous to allow the Russians to put us off guard and to have us stampede into a program that unbalances our whole defense establishment. Rockets are important; they are not our whole armor.

President Eisenhower, although he attempted to discount the military importance of the Red satellite, admitted at a press conference that he is concerned that the United States is not "further ahead" in the productuion of intercontinental ballistics missiles.

Neil H. McElroy, who has just been sworn in as Secretary of Defense, is dramatically taking charge of the missles program with the intent of removing bottlenecks in the test and evaluation steps. And it is significant that Senator Bridges and Senator Saltonstall, the two ranking Republicans on the Senate Armed Services Committee, are apparently ready to join Democratic members in pressing for an investigation of the whole satellite and missile program.

The fact that the Russians are obviously a step ahead of the U. S. in this field is not cause for hysteria or panic. It would be foolish to pretend that nothing has happened, that the situation has not changed. that there is no need to quicken the pace if that possibility exists. This is a time for hard-headed reappraisal of our resources and our standing in the arms race, and for deployment of our energies as they will best serve to provide the security we must have.

Stamps Cleared

TRADING STAMPS, in and of themselves, have received a clean bill of health from the Federal Trade Commission after being under scrutiny for more than a year.

But the Commission recognizes there can be skullduggery in operation and says it will keep a continuous watch on that phase of a business that currently is estimated to be aggregating hundreds of millions of dollars annually.

The FTC tested the trading stamps against laws it administers relating to deception, price descrimination, lotteries, exclusive dealing, boycott and conspiracy. It satisfied itself that in theory at least all is well.

The Commission noted that three or four states have outlawed trading stamps but it also pointed out that in a "considerable number" of states courts have held anti-trading stamp laws unconstitutional.

Trading stamps are not of recent origin, dating back to the last century, but the last decade has brought them a surge in popularity. Today an estimated 40 to 50 million families save stamps of one or more of the 300 concerns circulating these gummed bits of paper.

Whether the stamps still serve to attract business is a matter of argument. It seems evident however that enough stamp concerns exist to assure competition, and the housewife whose fancy runs to stamps needn't pay higher prices to collect them.

Good-by Huck Finn

STEPHEN FOSTER'S "Old Black Joe" is a piece of immortal Americana, loved and sung by tens of millions of people over the generations. But it has been banned from certain air networks, on the grounds that it contains racially offensive phrases.

Now the New York City Board of Education has taken "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" from its approved textbook list for grade and junior high schools. A great many excellent critics regard Huck Finn as among the greatest American novels, and practically all would put it high on any short list of genuine classics.

A publisher is quoted as saying the book was banned because, like Stephen Foster's wonderful old song, it was held to contain racially offensive material.

There is only one logical end to such a trend. All literary and musical material which happens to offend anyone should be banned, whether those offended are white, yellow or black; leaders of business or leaders of labor; Protestants, Catholics or Jews, and so on ad infinitum We can all withdraw into a vacuum, wrap ourselves in our own prejudices and sneak back to the Dark Ages.

Merry-Go-Round—

N. Y. Mayor Won't Meet Royal Train

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Mayor Bob Wagner of New York, who would not receive King Saud of Saudi Arabia but did receive Archbishop Makarios of Cyprus, is playing it very safe with the Queen of England. When the queen's special Baltimore and Ohio train arrives in Staten Island, the Mayor will not be on hand to meet her. He will wait until she arrives at City Hall.

Mr. Pearson

Quite a hullabaloo was raised when Eisenhower previously declined to meet the President of Brazil, the President of Italy, the King and Queen of Greece, and other chiefs of state when they arrived at Washington airport or Washington Union Station. He waited at the White House. In the case of King Saud, Ike made an exception and went to the airport. This was why British officials made sure that the President would put the Queen of England at least in the same category as the king of Saudi Arabia and go to meet her at the airport. He did.

But the Mayor of New York is a law unto himself. He claims that proper protocol requires that he await the Queen at City Hall. Another mayor, born in Ireland, warmhearted Bill O'Dwyer, did not follow this policy. I recall that when I arrived in New York with the Friendship Train, Mayor O'Dwyer did not wait at City Hall, but went down to the Battery at the lower tip of Broadway to meet me and ride up Broadway in the same car.

But Mayor Wagner, whose father was born in Germany, will wait in regal splendor in City Hall to greet the Queen of England, whose ancestors likewise were born in Germany.

NOTE — Up for reelection next month, the Mayor figures there are a lot of Irish voters plus some Greek voters in New York.

White House News Curtain

The problem of getting news out of the White House is becoming more and more difficult. White House correspondents recently made a formal protest against the brushoff given them by new Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy. He was a lot different from garrulous Charlie Wilson, his predecessor.

About ten days after the arrival of Queen Elizabeth, the UP's Merriman Smith, dean of White House correspondents, had a showdown with White House press secretary Jim Hagerty. Smith had made repeated queries on various questions, was unable to get answers. Finally he said:

"Up in Newport we couldn't get anything from the President because he was on his vacation. Now the excuse is that he's busy getting ready for Queen Elizabeth.

"I can't see that he has to do much to prepare for the Queen's visit. He goes to meet her once. And he gives her a dinner. What is keeping him so busy? Is he going to cook the meal?"

News still continues tight around the White House.

Big Oil vs. Little Oil

In the days when trust-busting Thurman Arnold was keeping an eagle eye on big business as head of the Justice Department's Antitrust Division, he brought a historic suit against the big oil companies for getting kickbacks from the oil pipelines they owned.

With the oil moguls paying less to pump their oil through their subsidiary pipelines, the independent oil companies were out of luck. They couldn't compete. Arnold won his case and got a consent decree limiting the oil companies to a seven-per cent profit on their pipelines.

But like many consent decrees in antitrust cases, it has been flagrantly flouted. The oil companies thumbed their nose at the court and Attorney General Brownell's Justice Department did nothing about it.

Finally, Congressman Mannie Celler of New York announced an investigation. Three weeks after his announcement, the Justice Department figured that it might be shown up in a bad light. So it got busy, filed suit against Standard Oil of Indiana, owner of the Service Pipe Line Co.; Tidewater Oil Co., owner of Tidal Pipe Line Co.; Arapahoe Pipe Line Co., owned by Sinclair Refining Co. and Pure Oil; and the Texas Pipe Line Co., owned by the Texas Co.

Congressman Celler has already accomplished a lot, but he'll go ahead with his probe anyway.

One Man's Sacrifice

Some people claim Washington is a stony-hearted city, full of bureaucrats, retired Army-Navy officers, defeated politicians who think more about the places they came from than the city in which they now live. Maybe it used to be that way. I don't know.

But I do know that the other day I was sitting with a man who was busier than the proverbial one-armed paper-hanger, but who took time out to do all sorts of things for his community. He was never too busy to handle the drive for Christmas Seals, or the Red Cross, or the campaign to aid crippled children, though he was the head of the Hecht Company and three big department stores

I was with Harry Davidow that day, planning a campaign to aid juvenile delinquency through the Big Brothers. With us was Herbert Goodman of Remington-Rand, another busy man who can always find time to help others.

We worked for more than an hour. Outside Davidow's office other people were waiting. We left. Shortly after we left Harry Davidow suffered a stroke, never rallied. He died giving himself to his community.

Harry Davidow was a Jew. Herb Goodman, who is heading the Big Brothers funds drive, is a Catholic. This fact was accidental. But I like to think of that cooperation and Harry Davidow's sacrifice as the kind that makes this country great, and proves that Washington, D. C., is not the stony-hearted city people sometimes say it is.

From Washington—

Southern Moderates Need Help

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

It is increasingly evident that President Eisenhower must soon find a way actively and openly to join forces with the moderate leaders of the South if we are to avert another Little Rock — or something worse.

Mr. Drummond

Unfortunately the President cannot move at once. The reason is that Mr. Eisenhower will not generally be accepted in the South as a friendly, mediating participant until Federal troops can be withdrawn from Little Rock and until there is no imminent prospect that they will have to return. Also, any meeting at this moment would give the extremists too much of a platform.

But there is no doubt in the minds of Southern moderates that the President cannot wait one second beyond what is absolutely necessary before he calls a White House conference of all in the South who will work with him to create an atmosphere and further a policy of patience, understanding and law observance.

Or better yet, go to the South himself to confer and to consult, to help and to heal and to show to all there that he is the same man of radiant goodwill whom the South so greatly helped to elect their President in 1956, after the Supreme Court decision on integration, as it helped to elect him in 1952.

Need Ike's Help

Why is it urgent, even imperative, that the President lend his visible support and presence and prestige to the cause of the Southern moderates — those Southerners, now dangerously dwindling in number, who, though opposed to integration, do not wish to flout the Constitution and disobey the law of the land?

The reason seems pretty adequate It is that without a supporting and helping hand from the President, the time will soon come when there just won't be any Southern moderates at all.

They already have their backs to the wall. They are losing influence and, unless something can be done, they will soon begin to lose office — and vanish into the mist.

It needs to be appreciated that any headway at all anywhere in the South toward school integration, at whatever level, is not because there is a developing Southern support for it, but because there is still some Southern desire not to be in violation of the law.

There is no support for integration in the South. There are only degrees of opposition and degrees of willingness to abide by the law.

It is at this point that President Eisenhower can, after the troops are out of Little Rock, help the work of the Southern moderates, because then the President can become the rallying point for patient, understanding, step-by-step observance.

Collins Saw Need

The most constructive and courageous exponent of this view is Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida. He saw the need for presidential action of this kind well before Little Rock, and here is the text of the telegram, heretofore unpublished, which he sent to Mr. Eisenhower. It is worth reading today:

"I respectfully send you this message pursuant to the authorization and request of a conference held in Tallahassee of members of the Florida State Cabinet and of our Board of Control, which supervises our state's institutions of higher learning, the presidents of these institutions, the presiding officers and educational committee chairmen of both branches of our Legislature, and representatives of local school systems in Florida.

"We in Florida are proud of the sound and reasonable position we have maintained in the face of problems arising from efforts to compel integration of the races under decisions of the United States Supreme Court. The people of Florida of both races have been most cooperative and have avoided furor, hysteria and disorder. At the same time, we have maintained the traditions and customs of segregation which are deeply rooted in this state as in any other Southern state through generations of acceptance. Over a period of years, Florida has vigorously and at great expense carried forward many programs for improving the standards and opportunities of the Negro.

Relations Deteriorate

"However, as a direct result of the integration edict and of the activities of extremists on both sides, we are experiencing what well may become a serious deterioration of racial relations and we are fearful the progress we have made over many years may be dissipated.

"We desire an opportunity to convey to you as our President our sincere impressions of these circumstances and conditions and feel you and the Attorney General of the United States can be helpful not only to Florida but also to all of the Southern states if you see and understand the problems with which we are confronted.

"This understanding we feel you can have even though the U. S. Supreme Court has demonstrated a woeful lack of such insight.

"I, therefore, request that you and the Attorney General convene a conference of the Governors and Attorneys General of the several states of the South so that a general discussion may be had of the South's present problems in the whole field of racial relations.

Respectfully,
"Leroy Collins"

Before Little Rock Mr. Eisenhower demurred at Gov. Collins' proposal.

The need for some such action is not growing less, it is becoming greater.

It's a Fact—

The famous artist Leonardo da Vinci saw the possibility of making an automobile and several steam vehicles 400 years ago.

Andrew Jackson was nominated by the first national party convention held in the United States, in 1832.

The Cynic's Corner—

"What are you complaining about . . . you get treated better than a lot of people in the world . . . !"

National Affairs—

South Is Now Isolated Politically, Editor Says

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP)—The political editor of the Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution has been pulse-feeling in the Old Confederacy and comes up with the expected finding:

The race issue now rattling the foundations of the Democratic Party has politically isolated the Old South.

Mr. Wilson

The editor, William M. Bates, finds further that there are third party talk and prospects in the Southern air.

President Eisenhower dented the Solid South in 1952 and again in 1956 but Bates reports:

"There seems to be little room in the Republican Party now for states rights minded Southern Democrats. The Little Rock crisis, on the other hand, cannot fail to widen the deep North-South rift within the Democratic Party."

Would Welcome Bolt

It seems, therefore, that there is little room in either major party now for states rights-minded Southern Democrats. Sen Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) pointed up the Democratic Party situation some days ago. Douglas is of the Democratic left, a liberal or New Deal party man, and prominent in this year's congressional effort for all-out civil rights legislation.

Douglas was asked whether the efforts of himself and other Northern Democrats might not force the Southerners out to form their own party.

"I would welcome it," Douglas snapped.

Some other Northern Democrats are like-minded. The brake on Southern enthusiasm for a third party adventure in 1960 is the danger that Southern members of Congress might be read out of the Democratic Party and thereby lose their prime and powerful committee chairmanships. In the possession of these chairmanships lies the last substantial political power remaining to white Democrats in the old Confederacy.

House Election

The Southerners know, of course, that their third party presidential nominee could not be elected by the normal process. Diversion of the electoral votes of the states of the Old Confederacy to a third party candidate might, however, prevent any other candidate from obtaining the required majority of 266 electoral votes.

The House of Representatives in that event would choose the President from among the three top winners of electoral votes. In the House each state would cast one vote. The candidate receiving 25 or more votes would become the next president. That magic figure, 25, represents a majority of one of the votes of all the states.

Powerful Bloc

The 11 states of the Old Confederacy or the 13 states now sometimes listed as comprising the South would be a powerful bloc in such an election. They might bring an election in the House to absolute stalemate. Having brought it to stalemate, such a bloc of states might negotiate pledges and bargains vitally affecting the policies of a winner to whom they finally swung their support.

It is a tempting thing. The voice of the South can be heard no more, or faintly, in the councils of the national Democratic Party. A third party operation well-timed and expertly managed might change that to let the Southern voice be heard loud and clear.

The Lighter Side—

'Fishybacking', Other New Words Defined

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—You probably haven't realized it, but there's a good deal of fishybacking going on in this country.

Fishybacking? That's more or less water-going piggybacking.

In the hot and heavy race of our lexicographers to keep up with our up-and-jumping language, those two words have just made the dictionary. Although the dictionary doesn't say, presumably those well - known gentlemen of the road, the teamsters, invented both.

Piggybacking is defined: "The transporting of loaded truck trailers, especially on railroad flat cars." Fishybacking is "the transporting of loaded truck trailers by barge, ferry or similar vessel."

They are included in the 1957 edition of "The American College Dictionary," an erudite tome that keeps the language sorted and strives mightly every year to dig what people are saying and to stuff itself accordingly—and properly.

It's a pleasure to note that the current edition has caught up with aqualung, blacktop, and bordello—that it knows a tranquilizer is "any drug that reduces tension, anxiety;" and that a freeloader is "one who imposes on others for free food, entertainment, etc."

Not Strong Enough

Because God made so many of them, it also is a pleasure to see that jerks, screwballs, wacks, goofs, and goops are right in there with their definitions. A jerk, it says, is "an unknowing, unsophisticated, or unconventional person." (This seems not quite strong enough to me.)

Screwball—"An erratic, eccentric, or unconventional person."

Wack—"An erratic, irrational, or unconventional person."

Thus, apparently, a wack is a little wackier than a screwball, since he can be irrational where the screwball is merely eccentric.

A goop is "a bad-manner person" and a goof is a "foolish or stupid person." But, alas, this fine word-pile has not included the oft-heard verb form of goof, as in "somebody goofed." Maybe next edition. . .

I also looked in vain for that popular variant of goof: Boo-boo. Perhaps the editor figured he might make a boo-boo by putting it in, because it may die out in a jiffy— "A very short time. Also, jiff. (Orig. unknown)."

Hifalutin is there, and snafu; bebop, bebopped, and hi-fi. The jet age is served by flame - out, which is "the failure of a jet engine in flight or during take-off." And, of course, youth is served by hot rod (two words, incidentally) —"A car (usually an old one) whose engine has been altered for increased speed."

Hipster Missing

Hipped, as if you didn't know, means "having an obsession: 'He's hipped on playing the tuba'" —and you've got to be really hipped for that one. Hipster, however, isn't there: not yet, that is.

The current terrific usage of the adjective terrific draws a dictionary curtsey in one definition of the word: "Extraordinarily great, intense etc." Ditto for terrific's pal, awful: "Very, very great."

Well, in case you're beginning to feel that this whole subject is an awful nuisance, let's look at a nuisance word: Well. Many people are unable to answer a question without starting out, "well . . ." And in that usage the dictionary says the word is "merely a preliminary to further speech."

In my bright lexicon, "well" used thus means "uh." But does any a dictionary list the fine word uh? Unh-unh. This one doesn't even list "ary." However, we shouldn't carp. It lists a great one:

Veep (Cap V)—"The vice-president of the United States."

Two families in Arnold City ere left homeless when fire destroyed their two-family house today. A young mother of a 10-day old child leaped to safety from a second-story window and the baby was brought to safety. Firemen battled the fire for four hours to keep it from spreading to nearby homes. No one was seriously injured. Tenants were Mr. and Mrs. James Turner and six children and Andrew Wilson and family.

Pfc. Joseph Fiorillo, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fiorillo, 221 Third St., whose body was returned with the World War II dead on the Honda Knot, will be buried in Pittsburgh, the family disclosed today.

Mrs. George Stark
(Marlene Ratica)

Ratica-Stark Nuptials Are Solemnized at St. John

Marlene Ratica, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ratica of Scott Ave., and George Stark, son of Mrs. Anna Stark of Belle Vernon and the late George Stark, were united in marriage on Saturday, Oct. 12.

They exchanged their nuptial vows in St. John the Divine Russian Orthodox Church. The Rev. John Govrusik read the lines of the double ring service at 2 o'clock in the afternoon before an altar arranged with bouquets of white chrysanthemums, white gladiolus and ferns. White satin bows indicated the family pews.

Escorted down the crash lined aisle by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported pure silk peau de soie and Alencon lace. The bodice was fitted with long pointed sleeves and a row of tiny covered buttons down the back. A sabrina neckline of lace was trimmed with seed pearls and crystal sequins. The very full skirt extended in a full court train. Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion fell from a coronet crown of imported rose-point lace sprinkled with drop pearls and sequins. Her only jewelry was a pair of pearl earrings, and she carried a white satin covered Prayer Book topped with a white orchid and lilies of the valley.

Bridal Party

As maid of honor, Audrey Ratica, sister of the bride, wore a ballerina length gown of sapphire silk taffeta. It was styled with a fitted bodice and full pouf skirt with a petal hemline. She wore a rhinestone tiara and carried a bouquet of fugi mums to match her gown.

Valeria Rusnak, bridesmaid, wore an ensemble of DuBarry Rose styled identically to that worn by the honor attendant. She also carried matching fugi mums.

Frank Plevel of Charleroi was best man. The usher was Nicholas Lovich.

The mother of the bride wore a Dorio crepe sheath dress with a side drape. She wore a matching hat and corsage of gold pompons. The mother of the bridegroom selected midnight blue for her attire. Her corsage was also gold pompons.

Buffet Luncheon

Immediately after the wedding rites there was a buffet luncheon served at the Ratica home. Supper was served at Sweeney's for the immediate families. In the evening the couple left for a two week stay at Miami, Fla. The trip was made by plane. For traveling the bride wore a navy blue suit with a beige hat and navy accessories with a white orchid corsage. When they return they will reside in their newly furnished apartment at 225 Reed Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. Stark are both graduates of Monessen High School. Mrs. Stark is a graduate nurse from Allegheny General Hospital School of Nursing, Pittsburgh. Mr. Stark is employed at Pittsburgh Steel Co.

Following the wedding rehearsal the evening before the ceremony buffet refreshments were served at the Ratica home. The bride gave her attendants wallets and the bridegroom presented jewelry to the male members of the wedding party.

Marriage of Area Couple Is Announced

Mr. and Mrs. John Kwapien of Lynnwood are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Caroline, to Joseph Molle of Monessen. The ceremony took place at Smithton on Sept. 19 before Justice of Peace Tillie Zundel.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Grados of Lynnwood attended the bridal couple.

A wedding supper was served at the Blue Top Hotel, and then the couple left for a trip to Kentucky.

Mr. and Mrs. Molle, who are now residing at 101 Donner Ave., were honored at a reception at the Sokol Hall when they returned from their wedding trip.

Presbyterian Guild Will Meet Wednesday

The Presbyterian Guild of the First Presbyterian Church will meet on Wednesday evening in the church. Mrs. W. D. Gemmill, president, will be in charge and devotional leader will be Mrs. W. Barton Waite.

Mrs. James R. Gemmill will review the book, "Preacher With a Plow," by Samuel Coles.

Mrs. R. G. Stephens will present missions in the news. Circle 3 members will be hostesses for the social hour.

BIRTH

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Palumbo, Charleroi, a son, eight pounds, Oct. 17, at 4:13 p. m., at the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital.

Carol Hughes Wed To John Trembush

Carol Ann Hughes and John Theodore Trembush exchanged nuptial vows in the Rehoboth Presbyterian Church on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 19, at 3:30 o'clock.

The Rev. J. Nelson Jackaway, church pastor, heard the exchange of double ring vows before an altar decorated with white gladiolus and ferns. White crash lined the church aisle used by the bridal party and white satin bows marked the family pews.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hughes Jr. of Webster, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Trembush, 304 Ohio St., Belle Vernon.

Nuptial Music

Nancy J. Stacy played an organ prelude before the ceremony and accompanied the soloist, Mabel Kopp, who sang "I Love You Truly," "Because," "Whither Thou Goest," and "The Lord's Prayer." The latter selection was sung immediately after the exchange of vows.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a floor length gown of Dupuoni silk over taffeta, styled with a fitted bodice of lace over silk with a scoop neckline, which was appliqued with lace. A pleated silk cummerbund emphasized the waistline and the long sleeves ended in point over the wrist. The bouffant skirt was also of silk with lace accents and it ended in a chapel sweep. Her headpiece, a lace pillbox, which featured a white satin dior bow in front and was trimmed with sequins, held her fingertip veil of illusion.

She carried a white satin Bible topped with a white orchid. Her only jewelry was a pair of pearl earrings.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Thomas J. Moody, sister of the bridegroom, and maid of honor was Ruth Bailey, cousin of the bride, Bridesmaids were Patty Bailey, cousin of the bride and Sandra Lewis, a friend of the bride.

The attendants were attired in emerald green dresses of poi-de-soi. The plain sleeveless bodice was highlighted by a scoop neckline and the full skirt was of unpressed pleats. The only trim was a baby bow offset with a rhinestone buckle near the hemline and a matching cummerbund. They wore large matching picture hats and carried colonial bouquets of bronze pompons with gold ribbon.

William Ferencz, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Thomas B. Trembush, brother of the bridegroom, Thomas J. Moody, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Paul Trembush, cousin of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride wore a poudre blue lace dress with navy accessories and a red rose corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a blue silk print dress with black accessories and a red rose corsage.

The bride's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hughes, and the bridegroom's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Eva Trembush both wore white carnation corsages to enhance their ensembles.

Dinner was served at the Sokol Hall in Monessen at 5:30 o'clock and later in the evening there was a reception there. A four tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple centered the table. Guests attended from New York, Connecticut, Ohio, Michigan and surrounding communities.

Later the couple left for a southern wedding trip. For traveling the bride wore a black jersey crepe sheath dress with black accessories, a beige fur jacket and a white orchid corsage. When they return they will live temporarily with the bride's parents.

Both the bride and bridegroom were graduated from Rostraver High School with the class of 1957 and 1955 respectively. Mr. Trembush is employed at the local plant of the Pittsburgh Steel Co.

After rehearsal on Friday evening there was a dinner at the home of the bride. She presented her attendants with compacts and the bridegroom gave his attendants tie bars.

Troop 4 Girl Scouts Plan For Hay Ride

Girl Scout Troop 4 met at the Civic Center on Wednesday evening with the leader, Mrs. Helen Kreger, in charge.

After opening ceremonies the girls planned a hay ride for next Wednesday and a Halloween party for Oct. 30. Other future projects were discussed.

The group sang "Happy Birthday" to Janice Pacak" and other songs. They also played games during the social hour.

St. Nicholas Sisterhood Has Anniversary

In observance of the 12th anniversary of the organization of the Sisterhood of St. Nicholas Ukrainian Church banquet was held on Thursday evening at Twin Coaches.

A chicken dinner was served at 7 o'clock at tables arranged with fall flowers and tall lighted tapers. Each member was presented with a corsage of fall flowers, a handkerchief and a palm tree favor.

The Rev. Michael Yarosh, church pastor and spiritual adviser of the sisterhood, asked the invocation and also served as toastmaster.

Mrs. Antoinette Kritsky, president of the group, assisted by Mrs. Anna Kozik and Mrs. Mary Protz were in charge of the program and banquet arrangements.

Mrs. Mary Berkovitz won the special prize.

A social hour was highlighted by the floor show and entertainment by Al Morgan.

LOCALS

The Monessen Sportmen Association and Ladies Auxiliary will meet for business sessions on Thursday evening at the club house. Carl Garrick will have charge of the Sportmen meeting and Mrs. Garrick will conduct the auxiliary session. Refreshments will be served.

There will be an important meeting of Boy Scout Troop 10 Mothers Auxiliary tonight at 7 o'clock at the Hilltop Fire Station. Plans for future activities will be made, and material will be distributed for a current ways and means project.

Faith Lippard Missionary Society of St. Paul Lutheran Church will meet tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock at the church. The devotional leader will be Mrs. Frank Maykovich and the officers will be hostesses.

The 16 hour basic training course being conducted for Area Girl Ssout leaders will not be held tomorrow evening due to the illness of the instructor, Mrs. James Sinclair of Donora.

Mrs. James Phillips of Shaker Heights, Cleveland, visited over the week end with Mrs. Alma Whitehouse of Linden Ave.

The choir of Trinity Episcopal Church will have rehearsal tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock.

Betty Jane Mucci Is Hostess to Brickettes Club

Betty Jane Mucci of Perryopolis was hostess to the Brickettes at her home on Thursday evening.

Two new members were welcomed, Helen Cunningham of Bentleyville, and Josephine Fayak of Lynnwood.

Two of the members received congratulations on the birth of sons recently, Mrs. Ann Susko of Donora and Mrs. Betty Mastollar of West Newton.

Cards were played and those receiving high score awards were Pearl Cathers of Lynnwood and Maggie Behanna of Perryopolis.

Luncheon was served and Mrs. Cathers was named next hostess.

Monolith Is Dedicated Here

The monolith bearing the inscription of the 23rd Psalm, which was donated to the people of Monessen by the Eagles Ladies Auxiliary, was formally dedicated yesterday afternoon at City Park. It has been placed there alongside a similar tablet bearing the Lord's Prayer inscription, and donated by the Eagles men's lodge.

The Rev. Paul Trout, pastor of the St. Paul Lutheran Church, asked the invocation and explained the meaning of the 23rd Psalm. He commended both groups for "Putting God above all" in making their civic contributions.

Past Presidents Mary Timcoe and Thea Dominico cut the ribbon and the tablet was unveiled by Past Presidents Wilma Dolinsky and Margaret Hupchick.

Another past president, Elizabeth Pezek, introduced Mayor Hugo Parente, who spoke and promised the cooperation of the city in providing care for the two tablets.

Stone Blessed

The stone was then blessed by the Rev. John Govrusik of St. John the Divine Russian Orthodox Church.

Betty Gedeon, president of the auxiliary thanked those who took part in the ceremony, and Father Govrusik gave the closing prayer.

The Rev. Mr. Trout and Father Govrusik represented the local clergy at the program, Mayor Parente and Councilman John Molnar represented the city administration.

Attending from the men's lodge were Joseph Martz, president; Robert Huscroft, vice president; John Evans, secretary; Joseph Hupchick, Francis Crum, trustees; Pat Major, outside guard.

Women's lodge officers in attendance were Mrs. Gedeon, Mrs. Ann Komonder, vice president; Julia Fritz, secretary; Jane Cherkoki, financial secretary; Margaret Griggs, Josephine Boyd, Sophie Luoma, trustees; Dorothy Wendel, inside guard; Patty Stetsko, outside guard and Min Crum, chaplain.

Past presidents were represented by the five who took part.

Luncheon was served at the Aerie Home after the ritual.

New Crafts Planned for Adult Classes

"Pour a Plant" will be the theme of the arts and crafts class to be conducted on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock at the Civic Center. Mrs. Joseph Hick will have on display several seasonal items including holly and poinsettas. There will also be ivy and Japanese plants shown.

Another activity planned for the arts and carfts for adults includes the showing of a film on Nov. 5. The films will be "The Art of Figure Carving," "The Art of Leather Carving," and "Beginners Leathercraft." These films are instructive to those studying leather tooling.

The following films were shown last year and are being shown again this year by popular request, "Aluminum Designing," "Copper Tooling," and "Copper's Enameling."

The project of candle making using the "glo-wax" will also begin in November.

Grid Officials 'In' and 'Out'

Three valley candidates were recently approved as PIAA football officials including Walter Mahnchak of Monessen. The other two valley products are both familiar names here in Archie DiCenzo of Donora and Eugene Pro of Charleroi . . . The PIAA has also dropped several District 7 officials for not replying to a request for a copy of a physical examination report . . . Eleven officials in all were dropped from the PIAA rolls of officials in District 7 which embraces this valley and surrounding areas . . . Incidentally, PIAA basketball officials who wish inactive status in 1957-58 must notify the PIAA office direct before December 15, 1957.

One very happy fellow over the New York Giants moving to San Francisco is Bill Rigney, the Giant manager, who resides in the Bay Area around San Francisco. No more living in hotels and apartments for him . . . According to what we read in New York papers, Horace Stoneham wanted to move to San Francisco because he likes California, not so much for what the city offered the baseball team . . . Don't forget, Horace, a loser won't draw whether it plays ball in a new city or not after the novelty wears off, is the attitude being taken by most of the N. Y. scribes . . . Of course it was quite a blow to New York's prestige to lose two of its major league teams to the Golden Gate state.

Many Changes at Wheeling Downs

Wheeling Downs opened its fall meeting Friday and will run for 32 more days this year . . . Race fans attending the fall meet will find many changes since the summer season closed in September . . . There is a new seven furlong chute, a new paddock, English Walking ring, a walk-way between the club house and stands . . . Additional changes have the infield tunnel closed and a new location for film patrol towers . . . All of which makes it just a little easier for you to drop your bundle at the picturesque track Bill Lias made famous and then lost to Uncle Sam.

Redstone Junior High has fielded an impressive grid team this season, its latest win being a 26-6 victory over the Brownsville Juniors . . . In another recent junior high game Donora blanked Monongahela, 12-0 . . . Bob Winters, Utah State University quarterback, has completed 45 passes in 83 attempts to lead the nation as a passing yardage-gainer . . . Penn State set a new football attendance mark this year when 32,660 overflowed Beaver Field for the Army game . . . You'd be surpirsed how many valley football fans are planning on attending the Pitt-Notre Dame game at South Bend Saturday. We've heard of several car pools planning on making the trip to Indiana . . . Surprising enough the loyalty is almost equally divided between Irish fans and Panther followers among those making the trip.

Bull-fight Story 'Spine-tingler'

If you want to hear a spine-tingling story get Lou Kichinko to tell of the bullfight he saw in Mexico while on his recent vacation . . . Any sports fan would drool at hearing Lou tell of the many celebrities in the sports world with whom he rubbed elbows, like Deacon Dan Towler (now Rev. Towler), Elroy Hirsch, Harry Craft, Willie Mays, and on and on . . . The New York Times carried this headline on a story about the Steeler-Giant game Sunday — 'Giants Warned About Morrall, New Passing Find of Steelers' . . . A Giant scout tabbed the Steelers as "20 per cent stronger than last season." . . . Morrall was labeled as the spark of the team by New York scribes.

Tokyo Grid Encounter Rivals Irish-Army Tilt

By OSCAR FRALEY

TOKYO (UP)— You can cheer, a non-commissioned officers quarcheer for old Notre Dame or roar terback club which chants, enthe glories of the Ramblin' Wreck masse: "Johnson Vanguards, from Georgia Tech but don't forget to remember that there's a you're our boys. You make the lot of football being played today touchdowns, we'll make the half way around the world from noise." But just about every guy home.

It could have been Des Moines, Iowa, or Turkey Trot, Tenn., as the Johnson Air Force Base defeated the Yokota Raiders, 30-0. There were the high-stepping majorettes, the pretty cheerleaders and the brickly matching band.

It could have been except for the pagoda-like buildings in the background.

A Breath Of Home

That, and the unusual enthusiasm marked the difference. Because to 250,000 military personnel in the Far East their 35 football teams — Army, Navy, Marine and Air Force — are a breath of home when the frost is on the rice paddies.

Enthusiasm was at fever pitch as Johnson won because the top Air Force team will qualify to meet the best Army team in the post-season Torri Bowl, named after the entrance gates to the Shinto Temples, while the Navy and Marine Corps winners square off in the Sukiyaki Bowl with the eventual winners playing in the windup Rice Bowl game.

Nor could you blame the Johnson supporters for rooting with all the frenzy of callous undergraduates. It isn't only that they have, as one officer explained, it was easy to understand why Johnson won. It had two Texans on its squad while Yokota only had one. He was a Texan.

But the real winners were the Air Force folks in the stands, from the commanding general all the way down to the smallest Army "brat." For a couple of happy hours they were back home again and only to a stranger did the pagodas in the background form a bizarre setting for what could have been a brisk fall afternoon in New England.

Two More Weeks of Action

Monessen's Midget League gridders swin into the final two weeks of action, postponed due to the flu, tomorrow night when Frank-Lin battles Lincoln and Vocational meets Jefferson in a twin bill. These games were postponed from Oct. 1.

It was at first believed that Jefferson could clinch the title last week with a victory over Lincoln but a check of the records proved this false. Now it is tomorrow night that a Jefferson victory will give them the title.

Lincoln and Frank-Lin, both in second place with 2-2 marks, have an outside chance to tie for the crown should Jefferson lose its next two games and the second-placers both win. If, however, the Jeffs win either one, its all over.

Action to Continue

Regardless of the outcome of tomorrow night's games, the league will continue action next week when Frank-Lin meets Jefferson and Vocational battles Lincoln. The All-Stars vs League champion games will then close the season.

Bids to play games against outside leagues were turned down by the local league directors at a meeting last week.

Coach Carmen DeMarco's lads have copped wins over Vocational Lincoln twice and Frank-Lin in posting the unbeaten mark one hour earlier than usual.

Tomorrow night's first game will begin at 7 o'clock, one half hour earlier than usual, with the second tilt following immediately upon completion of the first tilt.

STANDINGS

TEAM	W	L	Pct.
Jefferson	4	0	1.000
Lincoln	2	2	.500
Frank-Lin	2	2	.500
Vocational	0	4	.000

(Games start at 7 p. m.)

Tomorrow night

Frank-Lin vs. Lincoln (first game); Vocational vs Jefferson (second game).

ARMY DEFEATS PITT — Dick Scherer (84), Pittsburgh end, and Army back Bob Dawkins (24) leap in vain to snare a pass thrown by Pitt quarterback Pete Kaliden in the second quarter of the game at West Point, N. Y. Army, however, made atonement for its defeat last week at the hands of Notre Dame, by whipping Pittsburgh, 29-13, before a crowd of 27,550.

Bellmar Cops 13-0 Win Over Rostraver

Following a scoreless first half, Bellmar High's gridders got the "big break" on the opening kickoff of the second half to go on to a 13-0 victory over Rostraver High School in their annual "back-yard" battle at Rostraver Stadium before a "Parent's Night" crowd Saturday night.

Both teams fought on fairly even terms the first half as fumbles marred the play on a muddy field, stopping drives by both teams although first downs favored the Hurricanes in the first two periods, 6-2.

One of Bellmar's drives was halted immediately after receiving the opening kickoff when the ball was lost after a 43-yard drive which stopped on the Rostraver 36.

RHS Kickoff Fumble

On the kickoff to open the second half, Bellmar's Frank Burgess fell on the ball on the Rostraver 36 after a Leopard fumble. Fullback Reggie Kostelac, who did most of the Bellmar ball-carrying alternated hitting center and tackle with a five-yard offside penalty against Coach Wade Bender's Leopards figuring in moving the ball nearer the Leps' goal.

Kostelac finally crashed over from the two after a stout defensive show by the Leps, for the initial TD. He also added the extra point on an end run for a 7-0 count.

Rostraver fans were treated to a thrill a few moments later when Quarterback John Pierce momentarily broke into the clear going 26 yards to the Bellmar 41 before being brought down from behind by three 'Cane defenders.

Late in the third quarter Coach Bap Manzini's Hurricanes started a drive from their own 25. Halfback Larry Rankin's 29-yard dash off left tackle was the key play in the drive.

Rankin, halfback mate Ralph Greco, Kostelac and sub halfback Dennis Swiantek alternated carrying the ball for three straight first downs until Kostelac cracked over from the six for the 13-0 tally. Swiantek was stopped on the extra-point running attempt.

The final touchdown came on the second play of the fourth quarter.

Last Quarter Thrills

Although there was no further scoring, Bellmar's Swiantek and quarterbacks Pierce and Bob Keith of Rostraver kept the fans in their seats with some thrilling runs.

A touching half-time show saw the Rostraver senior gridders, cheerleaders and majorettes honored along with their parents. Senior members of the band were singularly honored by Mrs. Jean Budd, president, on behalf of the Band Parents Association. John Pelar is the Leopard band director.

The Bellmar band did not perform out of respect to their late director Ernie Dolfi, who passed away last week.

Total first downs favored Bellmar, 15-8. The 'Canes now have a 3-2 record, Rostraver 0-4.

Marie Foster Best in Ladies Eagle Loop

High games, both three game and single, were rolled by Marie Foster in the Ladies Eagle League yesterday.

Chucks, Orioles and Blue Jays copped the Canaries, Keets and Robins.

In addition to the top card, Ruth Koget, Dorothy Curry, Libby Rich and Ann Lombardo also had high totals.

Standings — Jays 14-7, Canaries 12-9, Robins 11-10, Chucks 11-10, Keets 11-10, and Orioles 10-11.

Knicks Beat Warriors

NEWARK, N.J. (UP) — Ken Sears scored 20 points to lead the New York Knickerbockers to a 102-96 win over the Philadelphia Warriors Sunday in a National Basketball Association exhibition game. The Knickerbockers had beaten the College All-Stars, 109-94, on Saturday night.

W. Newton Surprises Perry 11

West Newton continued playing the role of "spoiler" Saturday night with a surprising 21-19 victory over Perryopolis to knock the Commodores from the Class B title race.

Quarterback Otto Leone paced the Hornet attack tallying twice and Bryner carried over for one. But it was the important extra-point department that counted with R. Dickson and Bob Specht running over for two of the points-after to edge Perry.

The Commodores, apparently still feeling the effects of the flu, having been idle for three weeks, were led by Chambers, Piersol and Cernuska, each getting a six-pointer. Cernuska ran over for the only extra point.

West Newton coached by former Monessen athlete Andy Yartin has now won four games but was knocked from the title race by an opening game tie with Bentleyville.

Charleroi Posts Impressive 33-21 Win Over Trojans

Charleroi High's Cougar gridders, only Big Five team seeing action Saturday night, bounced back from a 7-7 tie with Ambridge the week before the defeat North Catholic, 33-21.

The surprising Big Five defending champions, paced by Ron Cosner and Joe Uhlman, quarterback and halfback respectively led, 13-7 at halftime then built the lead to 26-7 at the end of three periods.

North Catholic rallied somewhat in the final period but not enough to catch the valley team which posted another TD.

Payne at Fullback

Ollie Payne, brilliant Cougar end, was moved to fullback for the Trojan tilt and responded by gaining over 100 yards and scoring a touchdown in his new role.

Cosner and Uhlman tallied twice each for Charleroi, Strelick also checking in with a paydirt run. Cosner place-kicked two extra points, Uhlman ran for the other. Charleroi now has a 4-1 record.

The loss for North was the first in six starts. Fred Galovich, Ralph O'Donnell, and Dan Laughlin also made three extra points from placement.

Hempfield Blasts Scottdale by 49-12

Hempfield High, one of the threats in the WPIAL Class AA race, roared to a 49-12 exhibition win over Scottdale High Saturday night at Scottdale.

Hempfield, coached by William Abraham, had been idle two weeks because of a flu-riddled squad. Its remaining "AA" games are next Saturday with Wilkinsburg, Nov. 8 with Greensburg, and Nov. 15 at New Kensington.

Carrie Palm Posts Top Ladies OH Card

Ladies Open Hearth League Bowling featured wins by the Diamonds, Clubs and Hearts.

Top bowler was C. Palm with a 159-406. H. Zidilla, P. Komar, M. Opalinski, Al Blackwell, E. DeRocco.

Standings — Clubs 12-6, Diamonds 11-7, Hearts 11-7, Trumps 9-9, Spades 7-11, Jokers 4-14.

Bap Viviani Paces Field Fence League

Bap Viviani's 184-529 card paced the Field Fence League Bowling yesterday with the Bears and Eagles win over the Rams and Hawks.

Other high point-makers were R. Calderone, G. Papantonakis and A. Sellaro.

Standings — Bears 10-2, Eagles 6-6, Rams 4-8, and Hawks 4-8.

Hearing Helmet

NEW YORK (UP) — Tackle Frank Varrichione of the Pittsburgh Steelers, a former Notre Dame great, is hard of hearing and wears a special helmet equipped with a hearing aid.

Niccolaimen in Top Shape After Redstone Victory

Coach Armand Niccolai's, Monessen Greyhound gridders, fully recovered from the flu and feeling in high spirits following their impressive 38-13 win over Redstone Friday night, await the rugged Johnstown Johnnies in their next test.

The Johnnies, coached by Dave Hart, come here Friday night to test the 'Hounds, with a team which has been "hot and cold" this season but when hot, prove very, very torrid.

For instance, the Johnstown eleven, after losing its traditional battle to Windber, 21-19, came back to bounce Duquesne from the Class AA title race with a defeat of the Dukes.

Johnstown also owns a victory over Redstone in the opener for both teams by a 27-0 count.

Psychology Works

Hart has built his squad from three returning vets and was so disgusted after the Windber game he threatened to quit. The psychology apparently worked for the next week came the Duquesne victory for the Hartmen.

On the local scene, the Greyhounds came out of the Redstone game in which they looked improved both offensive and defensively, with no minor injuries.

They'll be back hard at work today with only four days to get ready for Johnstown (the night before a game is traditionally only a night for signal drills).

As a reward for their fine play in the Redstone contest, the 'Hounds were treated to the Charleroi-North Catholic game Saturday night by Coach Niccolai.

Eddie Galaski

Ex-Hound Galaski Standout in 12-7 Waynesburg Win

Former Monessen High gridder Eddie Galaski took a 22-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Art Walker with two minutes left to play to give Johnny Popovich's Waynesburg College gridders a win over Edinboro Teachers in the Jackets' homecoming game Saturday, 13-7.

Less than two minutes remained when Waynesburg's Jim Merchant recovered an Edinboro fumble. Walker then passed twice to Galaski one for 45 yards, then a toss to Don Bartolomucci, of Brownsville, who scored the first Waynesburg TD in the second quarter on a two-yard plunge. Next came the paydirt toss to Galaski. Edinboro had scored early in the fourth quarter on a 12-yard dash by Ed Montedore to take a 7-6 lead.

Waynesburg was originally scheduled to play St. Vincent College in their annual battle but when the flu stopped the Bearcats and also hit California Teachers, original opponents of Edinboro, the two "healthy" teams got together so as not to disappoint the homecoming crowd at Waynesburg.

Waynesburg	0	6	0	7	—13
Edinboro	0	0	0	7	— 7

Touchdowns: Waynesburg — Bartolomucci (2, runs), Galaski (22, pass from walker. Edinboro —Montedore (12, run).

Extra points: Waynesburg — Bartolomucci (placement). Edinboro—Montedore (placement).

Gallatin Edges Roscoe Booters

Gallatin won a 2-1 decision over Roscoe in a Washington County Soccer League game played yesterday.

Frank DeRosa's 12-yard shot with 15 minutes remaining gave the defending champs the victory after teammate Nick Pascarella's penalty kick had tied the score.

R. Sowden gave the visitors a 1-0 halftime lead when he fired into the Gallatin goal from 20 yards out.

Rose Lutes' Series Tops in St. Leonard's

Rose Lutes rolled a neat 476 three-game total and a 178 single game high to pace the St. Leonard's Bowling League action last night.

Right behind Rose in the scoring column were Ruth Koget, Peggy George, Betty Parente, and Mary Mazur, as St. Theresa and St. Cecelia topped St. Anne and St. Elizabeth.

Standings — St. Theresa 16-5, St. Cecelia 10-11, St. Elizabeth 9-12, St. Anne 7-14.

Campbell Tops MVCC Week End Golfing

Ray Campbell shot a 38-38—76 score today to pace golfers at Monongahela Country Club over the weekend.

Sam Velmer paced the Kicker's play with a 75.

Steelers Stunned In 35-0 Clubbing

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers, somewhat stunned after a 35-0 rout by the New York Giants, were given a day off today before opening practice for their tussle this Sunday with the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Steelers failed to get any kind of an attack going against the New Yorkers as Quarterback Earl Morrall was on his back most of the afternoon.

The Giants' Charley Conerly gave Morrall a lesson in passing. Conerly fired touchdown passes of 18 and 10 yards to end Bob Schnelker in the first half. The Steelers never got back into the game.

The National League champions made Conerly's job fairly easy. New York defenders made it virtually impossible for the Steelers to run or pass and harried Morrall relentlessly.

Pittsburgh could not do anything right. Jack Butler intercepted a Conerly pass in the first period but the Steelers were offside. Butler intercepted in the third period but the Steelers were holding and the Giants kept the ball.

Seniors Golfers Begin Play in North-South Go

PINEHURST, N.C. (UP)—About 325 senior golfers representing all parts of the country fanned out over three golf courses this morning for qualifying rounds in the sixth annual North and South Seniors Tournament.

Most of the players had sharpened up their game with practice rounds on the 18-hole courses over the weekend and described the fairways and greens in "perfect" condition. Match play in all flights begins Tuesday and continues through Saturday. The top 32 golfers today will go into the championship bracket.

Defending champion Tom C. Robbins of Larchmont, N.Y., began play at mid-morning in a foursome which included Col. Martin S. Lindgrove of Morristown, N.J., Kenneth W. Huffine of Bronxville, N.Y., and George E. Edmondson of Tampa, Fla.

One of the first foursomes to start out today was a group led by U.S. Golf Assn. President Richard S. Tufts of Pinehurst. The foursome included two members of the USGA executive committee, William McWane of Birmingham, Ala., and John M. Winters Jr. of Tulsa, Okla. John H. Vincent of Greenwich, Conn., was fourth.

Last year's runner-up, J. Wood Platt of Philadelphia, teed off with a foursome that included Platt's co-medalist of last year, Arthur S. Lynch of Scarsdale, N.Y., John W. Roberts of Columbus, Ohio, and Leslie Hoss of Tulsa, Okla.

The large field of golfers past 55 which turned out included all of the quarterfinalists from last year — Robbins, Platt, Roberts, Lynch, Lennox Haldeman of Chicago, Oral T. Carter and Roy Ellion of Cincinnati and Don Lambert of St. Louis.

Russo Favored 6-5 In Tonight's Bout

NEW YORK (UP)— Danny Russo, young Brooklyn welterweight, is a slight favorite at 6-5 to beat Eddie Lynch of New York again tonight in their return TV 10-rounder at St. Nicholas Arena.

Russo, 19, won a split decision in their rough and bloody fight at St. Nick's, Aug. 5. That bout was only an eight-rounder. Tonight each will be attempting 10 for the first time. Lynch is 22.

Their return will be televised by Dumont at 10:30 p.m. e.d.t.

A near-riot marred their first bout when Lynch's admirers from the Hudson River docks released pigeons, blew bugles, set off fire crackers and threw wads of paper. Two spectators were sent to the hospital. No such demonstration will be permitted tonight by the police.

Russo's 11-3-0 record includes not one kayo. Lynch registered but one knockout in the 11 victories scored during his 13 starts. He was beaten twice.

Uniontown Bests BV Bowlers, 2-1

Uniontown topped Belle Vernon Alleys in a Mon Valley Duckpin Bowling League clash last night, 2-1.

Pacing the winners was J. Salvato with a 225 game while M. Renkey looked best for the local entry with a 195 single game high although the three-game high honors went to Jack Kuhn. Other members of the Belle Vernon team included W. Titler, P. Schwartz, A. Francheschi, S. Ruby and C.

Nickname Needed

NEW YORK (UP)— The Athletic Department and student newspapers are conducting a contest at New York University in an effort to give the school a different athletic nickname than "Violets." A prize of $50 will be presented to the student who comes up with the best new nickname.

Upsets Feature as College Grid Play Reaches Half-way

By FRANK LITSKY

The nation's college grid players -- the few still unscathed and the walking wounded from Saturday's wave of upsets — plunge into "back-yard" conference play Saturday as the season passes the halfway point.

The highly attractive schedule is featured by key games in the Big and Ivy Leagues plus such juicy non - confefence fare as Notre Dame vs. Pittsburgh, Mississippi vs. Arkansas and Auburn vs. Houston.

The season's most spectacular successions of upsets claimed no fewer than four of the country's top 10 teams Saturday as Purdue whipped first ranked Michigan State, 20-13, Illinois beat third-ranked Minnesota, 34-13, UCLA defeated seventh - ranked Oregon State, 26-7, and Texas stunned ninth - ranked Arkansas, 17-0. Second - ranked Oklahoma, meanwhile, romped over Kansas, 47-0, for No. 44 in a row in a strong bid to reclaim the top ranking.

Both Michigan state and Minnesota face the necessity of bouncing back next Saturday against formidable Big 10 opponents. Michigan State (2-1 in the conference) plays Illinois (1-1) and Minnesota (2-1) faces Michigan (1-1). Iowa and Ohio State, tied for the conference lead with 2-0 records, play Northwestern (0-2) and Wisconsin (1-1) respectively.

The big one in the Atlantic Coast Conference will pit sixth - ranked Duke against North Carolina State in a game that probably will decide the title. The Blue Devils romped over Wake Forest, 34-7, Saturday while N.C. State played a scoreless tie with Miami, Fla., Friday night. Duke is 4-0 and N C. State 3-0 in conference competition.

In the Southwest Conference, fourth-ranked Texas A&M (1-0) plays Baylor (0-1) in what could be the key game. Baylor can scramble the picture by winning because Texas A&M, 7-0 victor over TCU, Saturday, is currently tied with Rice and Texas, who play each other next weekend.

Princeton, knocked from the unbeaten ranks by Colgate, 12-10, but still 2-0 in Ivy League play, faces Cornell and probably will have to win to retain a share of the lead. Dartmouth, tied for the lead with Princeton, is facing a weak Harvard team and will be a lopsided favorite.

Oklahoma's mighty powerhouse faces the only team in the Big Eight which is given a chance against it — Colorado — as it goes for its 45th victory in a row. Colorado warmed up for the assignment by beating Kansas State, 42-14. Nebraska plays Missouri and Kansas State plays Iowa State in other games.

The Southeastern Conference games find Louisiana State facing Florida and Georgia playing Kentucky while in the Pacific Coast Conference it will be Oregon State at Washington, California at Oregon, Washington State at Southern California and UCLA at Stanford.

Army, which made a strong bid for Eastern supremacy with its 29-13 win over Pitt, plays Virginia; Navy meets Pennsylvania, Purdue plays Miami of Ohio and Villanova faces Indiana in other games.

Aaron, Schoendienst, Spahn on NL All-Star Team; Bucs Blanked

NEW YORK (UP)—Hank Aaron, Red Schoendienst and Warren Spahn, the three key men in the Milwaukee Braves' march to a world championship, were the only unanimous selections today on the United Press' 1957 National League All-Star team.

A fourth Milwaukee star, third-baseman Ed Mathews, was named to the team which also included first-baseman Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, shortstop Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs, outfielder Willie Mays of the New York Giants, catcher Ed Bailey and outfielder Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Redlegs and rookie pitcher Jack Sanford of the Philadelphia Phils.

The team was selected for the United Press by a special committee of 24 baseball writers from each city in the league. The Brooklyn Dodgers and Pittsburgh Pirates were the only teams not represented on the squad.

The voting was close only at shortstop where the hard-hitting Banks beat out slick-fielding Roy McMillan of the Redlegs, 10 votes to eight. The other six votes were divided among Dick Groat of the Pirates, Al Dark of the Cardinals and Chico Fernandez of the Phils.

Although sound defensively, the team's outstanding attribute—could it actually take the field in the flesh — would be hitting. The eight regulars walloped no less than 247 home runs this year—an average of 31 per man — and five of the stars hit more than .300.

The top average, of course, was compiled by the 36-year-old Musial, who won his seventh N.L. batting championship with a .351-mark. Other .300-plus hitters were Mays, .333; Aaron and Robinson, .322 each, and Schoendienst, .309. Mathews hit .292, Banks .285 and Bailey .261.

Ex-Buc HR Hero Dino Restelli Now Frisco Cop

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — Dino Restelli, who banged home runs all over the lot for Pittsburgh during one frenzied streak in 1949, now bangs away with a service revolver at police school where he is learning to be a cop.

"I really was shooting good Sunday but hit a little slump today." The bespectacled ex-outfielder said today after examining a human silhouette he had been blasting. "Shooting is kind of like batting, I guess. You have to get warmed up."

Restelli became a household word overnight in Pittsburgh eight years ago when he came up to the Pirates from the San Francisco Seals and hit seven home runs in his first 10 games.

Gifts Of Macaroni

Ten home runs also meant 250 pounds of macaroni for the big rookie who found major league pitching, bouncing off his bat like golf balls.

"Some macaroni factory near Pittsburgh gave me 25 pounds of the stuff each time I got a homer," Dino said. "I passed it on to an orphanage."

But soon the hits began to come hard — just like a wisdom tooth which was extracted shortly after his big splash in the majors.

"I kept bleeding for three weeks afterward and even had to have a blood transfusion," Restelli said. "And I think that's where I started on the way down."

Slump Continued

Restelli finished at Pittsburgh in 1949 with a .250 average and only two more homers. The next year he hit .184 during a sting with the Pirates then returned to the Pacific Coast League where he usually had murdered the pitching. He clubbed .357 at Sacramento in 1952.

He was bedded down with a heavy virus that kept him out of the lineup during most of 1953. In 1954 he slipped to .261 at Portland while battling a torn right shoulder which never healed enough for him to play ball again.

"I managed a semi-pro club at Klamath Falls, Ore., during the 1956 season," Restelli said.

In the meantime, he seriously had considered joining the force and seeking to help combat juvenile delinquency.

"That's the kind of work I'd like to do," said Restelli who has 12 more weeks of police school ahead of him.

First-place Ties In NFL Following Brilliant Play

By EARL WRIGHT

Brilliant Sunday performances by Bobby Layne, Howard Cassady, Sunny Jurgensen, Y. A. Tittle and Charley Conerly produced first-place ties in both divisions of the National Football League.

The Lions set up a three-way tie for first in the Western Division by rallying from a 27-3 deficit to edge the Baltimore Colts at Detroit, 31-27. Layne climaxed Detrot's 28-point second half spree with a 29-yard touchdown pass to Cassady with only 50 seconds to play.

Three-Way Tie

Taking advantage of Baltimore's first defeat, the San Francisco Forty-Niners tied the Colts and Lions for the Western lead as Tittle fired two touchdown passes and scored himself in a 24-14 victory over the Green Bay Packers. The three leaders have 3-1 records.

Jurgensen, a rookie quarterback from Duke, replaced the injured Bobby Thomason and helped the Philadelphia Eagles pull the day's biggest upset. He threw a touchdown pass and plunged for another as Philadelphia downed the Cleveland Browns, the only other previously unbeaten club, 17-7. The Eagles had lost 14 straight games, including exhibitions, and took a 24-7 whipping at Cleveland last week.

Conerly threw two touchdown passes to Bob Schnelker as the New York Giants, defending league champions, shut out the Pittsburgh Steelers, 35-0. The Giants, playing like titlcholders for the first time this season, boosted their record to 3-1 and tied Cleveland for the Eastern lead.

Galimore Scores Four

Individual stars also sparked in the other two games. Willie Galimore's four touchdowns helped the Chicago Bears — defending Western Division champions — score their first 1957 victory, a 34-26 triumph over the Los Angeles Rams. Lamar McHan threw three touchdown passes and scored on a plunge to lead the Chicago Cardinals to a 44-14 victory over the Washington Redskins.

John Unitas threw two touchdown passes to Jim Mutscheller and two to Lenny Moore to give Baltimore a 27-3 lead in the third quarter. Tobin Rote then raised the hopes of 55,764 Detroit rooters with a 14-yard scoring pass to Steve Junker.

Cassady, enjoying the biggest day of his two-year pro career, caught a 26-yard touchdown pass from Layne to open the fourth period. Detroit scored twice in the last 90 seconds. Cassady caught a 25-yarder from Layne to set up John Henry Johnson's one-yard plunge and caught the game winner after Yale Lary recovered Moore's fumble on the Colt 29.

Michelosen Plans Tough Week of Drills for Pitt

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pitt coach Johnny Michelosen's Panthers faced a tough week of practice to overcome the lethargic play they showed in losing to Army Saturday, 29-13.

The Panthers, who received a lesson in team effort from the Cadets, came out of the Army game with few injuries, except to their pride. Army's 29 points was the highestt otal ever registered against Pitt in Michelosen's three seasons as head coach.

Pittsburgh's next opponent will be Notre Dame at South Bend, Ind., Saturday. Michelosen must come up with a more potent attack or perhaps suffer the same fate at the hands of the undefeated Irish.

The Panthers tired in the second half against Army after playing the Cadets on fairly even terms in the first half. After the 6-6 intermission tie, Army ran the Panthers into the ground.

Satterfield Top Choice Tonight

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Bob Satterfield, the Chicago battler with the explosive punch, was favored over Garvin Sawyer of Cincinnati in their 10-round heavyweight bout here tonight.

Sawyer, who hopes to use tht fight to move up in the heavyweight ranks, is handled by former heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott. Walcott will be in Sawyer's corner tonight.

Satterfield, 33, is considered one of the hardest punchers in his division. He is expected to have Sawyer on the canvas before the final bell.

Tackle Injured

WARSAW, Poland (UP)—Poland defeated Russia, 2-1, Sunday to hand the Soviet team her first setback in a bid for the world soccer title. A crowd of 100,000 saw the game at Katowice's Chorzov Stadium.

Basel, Switzerland, though 500 miles from the sea, handles some four million tons of ship cargo each year. The strategic Swiss port was founded by Romans on the Rhine river 2,000 years ago and called Basilia, meaning "city by the water."

Outpoint Russians

NEW YORK (UP)—Jack Stroud, New York Giant offensive tackle, injured his left knee in Sunday's 35-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers and is expected to miss at least two games.

Five Pennsylvania College Teams Lose First Games; Only Six Left

By UNITED PRESS

Westminster's 24-game winning streak was snapped by Geneva, 34-12, Saturday as five Pennsylvania teams were defeated for the first time this season, leaving only six unbeaten and untied teams in the state.

Upset Saturday was particularly black for Pennsylvania teams as all the state's major football powers suffered losses on second half letdowns.

Army rallied in the second half to crush Pittsburgh, 29-13, in a game regarded as a contest to decide the unofficial eastern champion. Pitt dominated the first half which ended in a 6-6 tie but Army scored a touchdown in the third and two TD's and a field goal in the fourth period to pile up the biggest score against the Panthers in Johnny Michelosen's three years as coach.

Brown beat Penn for the first time in 45 years, 20-7, with two touchdowns in the second half. Frank Finney, a 20-year-old quarterback who handled the wet ball on a sloppy field with dexterity, scored two of his team's three touchdowns.

Penn State also was beaten in the second half as Vanderbilt overcame a 20-13 deficit at the half with a three-touchdown assault in the final two periods for a 32-20 victory. The Nittany Lions were virtually unable to move the ball after the intermission as Vanderbilt drove 60 yards in two plays for one score, recovered a fumble to set up another and intercepted a pass to begin the third scoring drive.

A Boston College touchdown in the third period beat Villanova, 12-9 in a game played in a heavy downpour at Boston. A blocked punt, which could have been a winning touchdown in the final period had it been recovered by Villanova, rolled out of the end zone for an automatic safety.

Willie Taylor scored three touchdowns as Geneva snapped the Westminster unbeaten streak which dated back to 1954 and was marred only by a 7-7 tie with Waynesburg.

Franklin and Marshall, Lafayette, Swarthmore, and Ursinus were handed their first defeats, leaving only Juniata, Lehigh, Lock Haven, National Aggies, Pennsylvania Military and West Chester in the unbeaten and untied class.

Franklin and Marshall lost to Tufts, 14-7; Lafayette was beaten by Temple, 13-12; Swarthmore bowed to Hamilton, 21-6, and Ursinus was crushed by Wilkes, 39-0.

Juniata trampled Kutztown, 46-0, for its second victory, Lehigh beat Rutgers, 13-7, for its fourth win, Lock Haven made it four straight with a 27-13 victory over Ithaca; PMC beat Moravian, 6-0, for its fourth straight, and West Chester trounced Drexel, 39-0, for the teachers fifth win of the year.

Shippensburg remained unbeaten but tied by downing Bloomsburg, 20-19; Gettysburg ran over Albright, 37-13; Grove City blanked Allegheny, 14-0; Bucknell lost to Boston U., 28-0; Clarion beat Cheyney, 20-7; Waynesburg defeated Edinboro, 13-7; Carnegie Tech defeated Indiana Teachers, 19-13.

Scranton blanked Kings, 34-0; Muhlenberg beat Lebanon Valley, 18-6; Lincoln lost to Virginia Union, 43-6; and Millersville beat Washington, D.C., Teachers, 31-13.

Cancelled because of the flu epidemic were Johns Hopkins at Haverford, National Aggies at Shepherd; East Stroudsburg at Mansfield; Edinboro at California Tchrs.: Lycoming at Juniata; St. Vincent at Waynesburg; Susquehanna at Dickinson; Thiel at Washington and Jefferson and Western Reserve at Slippery Rock.

BV Halloween Parade Next Tuesday Evening

The annual Halloween parade will be held in Belle Vernon on Oct. 29, next Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. It will be sponsored by the Lions Club and the cooperation of young folks and adults alike is asked.

The gala event annually attracts many local and district people, and is highlighted by the presentation of coustume prizes and a treat for all who join in the procession.

Harold Ringstad, chairman of the boys and girls committee of the Lions Club, is parade chairman. He has announced that the procession will form at the site of the former plant of the American Window Glass Co. Everyone is to be in line so that numbers can be distributed before the parade begins promptly at 7:30 p.m.

The parade will move along Main St. to State, up State and Broad to the American Legion Home at Fayette St. There the parade will disband, prizes will be awarded and cookies and cider will be distributed.

Judges and prizes will be announced by Ringstad later in the week.

Members of the Lions Club will convene tomorrow for a dinner session at the First Christian Church. The men will assist with police duties, parade supervision and many other activities during the event.

Marion Girl Scouts to Meet

Intermediate Girl Scout Troops 44 and 56 of Fairhope are combining for Tuesday evening sessions in the Marion Presbyterian Church from 5:30 until 7:30.

This schedule will be followed until the first of the year when they will be re-registered as troop 44.

Mrs. Millie Russell, assistant leader, was in charge of last week's session in the absence of Mrs. James DePaolo, leader.

New girls worked on their tenderfoot requirements and the others worked on the Christmas gifts for their mothers.

A Halloween party will be held Oct. 29.

Ladies Society In Postponed Meeting Here

The Ladies Missionary Society of the First Christian Church met on Thursday evening in the Church social rooms. The meeting was postponed from the previous Thursday.

Mrs. Sue LeComte was the devotional leader, and the theme is "The Brotherhood of Love." The opening prayer was given by Mrs. Maude Bowers. Mrs. LeConte took her scripture from the book of John and her discussion from the "World Call." A poem, "The Christian Duty" was read and Mrs. Esther Mazza read an article, "The Brotherhood of Race."

Mrs. Mazza also conducted the brief business session during which there were routine reports. Plans were made for the November meeting at the home of Laura Free and she will also be devotional leader.

Luncheon was served during the social hour by Mrs. Mazza and Mrs. Bowers. All appointments were in a Halloween fashion.

Three Perish In Blaze at Newly-built Home

BEACH HAVEN, N J., (UP)—A building contractor and his wife and teen-aged daughter perished Sunday in an early morning fire which leveled the home he had built last year.

Howard Dalman, about 40 of nearby Beach Haven Garden his wife, Irene, and daughter, Kaye, 15, died before firemen who chopped a hole in the side of the two-story house, could reach them.

Beach Haven Fire Chief John Daniel said the fire apparently resulted from a leaky fuel line in a truck or an automobile in the garage adjacent to the ranch-type house.

Danile said the escaping fumes were apparently ignited by the flame in an oil burner or a nearby gas heater in the garage Neighbors said they heard a small explosion at the time the fire began.

Volunteer firemen arrived at the scene to find the front of the house a mass of flame, Daniel said.

Firemen, finally gaining access through the side wall, found Dalman slumped in a corner of a back bedroom, a hammer and screw driver under his body. He had apparently been using them in a futile attempt to open the high window.

Mrs. Dalman was found in another bedroom. The daughter was found lying in the hallway leading to the front of the house

The fire was reported by two Chester Pa., fishermen Ervin J Hoch 28 and his father, Ervin V 50.

A Good Job

RIVA DEL GARDA Italy (UP)—Skin divers went into a reservoir filled with several thousand gallons of wine last night to repair a safety valve which had become plugged and threatened to flood several blocks of the town with fermenting grape juice. The divers, equipped with oxygen tanks and goggles, worked "underwine" several hours to repair the damage.

Supreme Court to Act On Virginia Appeals

WASHINGTON (UP)— The Supreme Court may act today on Virginia's latest appeals to keep from becoming the next southern state to integrate its public schools.

The case, which is being widely watched in the South, involves the state's controversial pupil placement act designed to block integration.

The case concerns appeals from integration orders for schools in Norfolk and Newport News. The court last March rejected similar appeals for schools in Charlottesville and Arlington. The court could reject the present appeals or set them for hearing

Ruled Against Law

The present case stems from a desegregation order issued last February by Federal District Judge Walter E. Hoffman. Hoffman found the pupil placement law unconstitutional but nothing has been done because of the appeals.

The Fourth U S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld Hoffman but did not rule directly on the law, which was found lacking as an "adequate remedy" for Negroes in segregated schools.

The law requires immediate closing of an integrated school and denial of state funds if reopened on an integrated basis.

In other cases up for action in today's second "working" Monday of the present term, appellants have challenged:

1. A police ban on showing the French movie, "The Game of Love," in Chicago.

2. A California requirement that loyalty oaths be required for property tax exemptions.

Chicago Police Commissioner Timothy J. O'Connor refused to let the Times Film Corp., New York, exhibit the French motion picture on obscenity grounds. He acted under the city's movie censorship ordinance.

The appeals from the California tax regulation came from two churches whose officials refused to take a loyalty oath

Needs Ideas

VIENNA (UP) — Czechoslovakia's Communist government appealed to all citizens today to come forward with ideas for "improving the country's living standard." First Deputy Premier Jaromir Dolansky said measures to improve living conditions would include surpassing the five-year plan goals in industry, transportation and building, increasing the number of collective farms and their output, and decentralizing the nation's economy.

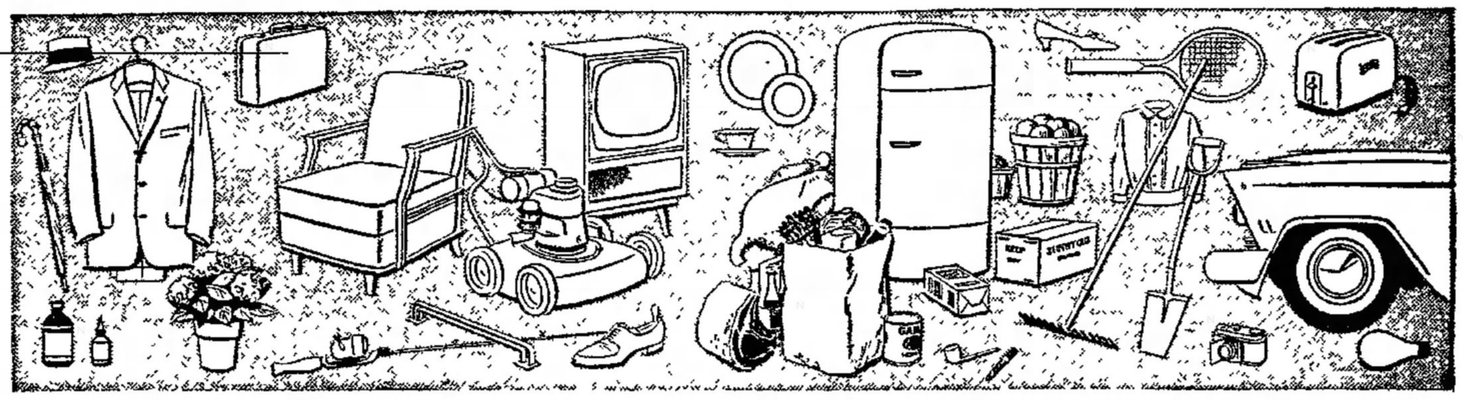
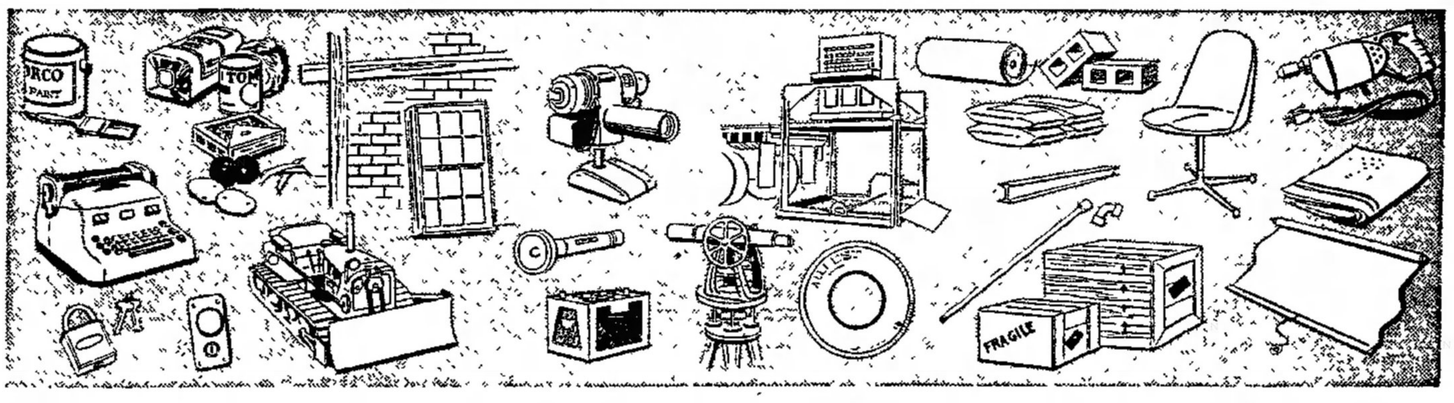
Security Clamp Down

GLASGOW, Scotland (UP)—Britain's Royal Navy put strict security precautions into force Sunday night as the U S atomic powered submarine Nautilus left Scotland to return to its base at New London, Conn. Officers and men aboard the British submarine depot ship moored in the River Clyde were under strict instructions not to talk about the Nautilus, which came here after taking part in recent NATO navy exercises in the Atlantic.



Telephone people earn a half-million dollars a day, most of which is spent for goods and services in Pennsylvania



In the areas we serve, the 39,000 Pennsylvania Bell people, plus their families, are good customers of thousands of local businesses of every kind.

The combined salaries and wages of our employees are more than 177 million dollars a year—almost half a million dollars every day. They spend their money for the same things everybody does—homes, food, clothing, furniture, appliances, automobiles and automotive products, toys, entertainment, an occasional luxury.

And they spend most of it in their home towns, with their local merchants.

The telephone company itself is a big customer of local businesses

As a company, we make thousands of purchases every year from hundreds of small, medium and large businesses in the areas we serve throughout the state.

We buy furniture, typewriters and other office supplies, trucks, tires, oil, food, steel, aluminum, concrete, glass, paint, floor coverings, paper, printing and scores of other goods and services.

Our success is important to the economic well-being of Pennsylvania

All this makes it clear that the successful operation of our company is important not just to our employees and to investors in Bell System securities, but also to businesses throughout the state—both those from which telephone people buy and those from which we buy as a company.

In one way or another, to a large degree or small, directly or indirectly, telephone people and the telephone company contribute to the economic well-being of almost every Pennsylvanian.

Friends are being received at the Ferguson Funeral Home, Broad Ave., Belle Vernon, from 1 to 5 and from 7 to 10 p. m. Funeral services will be held Wednesday, Oct. 23, at 10 a. m. from the St. Sebastian R. C. Church, Belle Vernon, with requiem mass being sung. Interment will be in Belle Vernon Cemetery. Shelby D. Ferguson, funeral director.

2 Card of Thanks

DOLFI — We wish to thank all our many thoughtful neighbors and friends who extended us kindness in our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved husband, son and brother, Ernest Dolfi. The ministrations of the Rev. William Schatz and the Rev. Lew F. Johnston, the floral tributes, the masses, cars loaned for the funeral, those who served as pall bearers, the members of the Belimar High School Band, and the Belle Vernon Musical Society Band and all others who aided in our sorrow will be remembered with deep gratitude.
Mrs. Ernest Dolfi.
Mrs. Mary Dolfi and Family.

RAY — We wish to thank the many thoughtful friends and neighbors who extended us kindness in our recent bereavement, the death of Mrs Rose Ray. The masses, floral tributes, expressions of sympathy, spiritual comfort, cars loaned for the funeral, and the aid of the pall bearers, the help of the Monessen Fire Company and of the members of the Monessen Knights of Columbus, as well as all those who assisted at the funeral will be remembered with gratitude.
Ray Family.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Francis Altemare, who died eight years ago today, October 21, 1949.
The rolling stream of life rolls on,
And still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice, the smile,
Of the one who once sat there.
It is lonesome here without you,
And sad the weary way;
For life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away.
Sadly missed by Mr and Mrs Leo Altemare and Family.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

3 Memorials

In loving memory of my dear wife, Mrs. Secondina DiBattista, who died five years ago today, October 21, 1952.
What would I give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see;
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But in some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife,
And clasp each other's hand once more,
In Heaven, that happy life.
Sadly missed by her husband, Tito DiBattista.

In loving memory of my dear sister, Mrs. Secondina DiBattista, who died five years ago today October 21, 1952.
Thoughts of you come drifting back,
Within my dreams to stay,
To know that you are resting,
Is my prayer for you today.
Sadly missed by sister, Mrs. Flora D'Altorio.

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Jennie Louise Nelson, who died seven years ago today, October 21, 1950.
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory fond and true,
Just a token of affection
And a heartache still for you.
Just a sigh for the olden moments,
Just a smile of love anew,
Just a tear in silence falling
And a yearning just for you.
Sally missed by Children and Grandchildren.

In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Joseph Salvino, who died seven years ago today, October 21, 1950.
You are not forgotten, loved one,
Nor will you ever be,
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes on we miss you more,
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place,
Sadly missed by Children and Grandchildren.

Hopes Raised For Safety of Young Sailor

MOREHEAD CITY, N.C. (UP)—A red flare sputtering briefly in the water off Cape Hatteras raised hopes Sunday night that a young part-time sailor overdue on a 550-mile ocean voyage may still be afloat.

The discovery came as the Coast Guard and Navy intensified their search for Melvin West, 28-year-old Jacksonville, N.C., disc jockey who set out from here Thursday for Bermuda.

The Coast Guard said the ship, the Berthaemetz, which sighted the flare combed the area for four hours before continuing on its trip. When it left the area it dropped lights to aid searchers who were to follow.

As soon as the report came in, the Coast Guard dispatched additional planes to the scene. It had two Coast Guard cutters and already called six Navy PBM's, Coast Guard planes from Elizabeth City, N.C., and Bermuda into the search.

Man Held for Firing Shots At Police Chief

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (UP)—Howard McDonald, 37, Sacramento, Calif., was in custody today charged with firing three shots at Nanty Glo Police Chief Guy Ceria. The shots went wild.

McDonald, formerly of Texas, went to the home of his estranged wife's parents at Nanty Glo last Friday and caused a commotion. When Chief Ceria arrived at the house to quell the disturbance, McDonald allegedly fired one shot into a wall and then shot three more times in Ceria's direction.

Ceria returned the fire, but his shot also missed. McDonald finally was subdued and held without bond.

Mrs. Ester McDonald told police she had returned to her parents home with her two children after leaving her husband on the West Coast.

State Makes Plowing Bid More Attractive

By UNITED PRESS

Pennsylvania's bid to host the 1958 national plowing contests became more attractive with the announcement of plans to run two other events during the same week.

A move is under way to establish an annual eastern states 4-H club plowing contest. Ralph E. Patterson, chairman of the state plowing committee, said the state contest would be held the day before the national event during the third week in August.

The annual Pennsylvania Dutch Days observance at Hershey will also be held during the third week in August.

It was learned at a committee meeting in the office of deputy state secretary of agriculture Lleland H. Bull that the Hershey farms would be available for both state and national plowing contests.

Bull and Patterson have advised the national committee chairman, R. S. Rainwater, of Walnut Ridge, Arkansas, that the way is clear for the 1958 match to come to Pennsylvania. A formal invitation will be extended.

The 1957 National Plowing Contest, held last September in Peebles, Ohio—drew approximately 350,000 persons during its three day run.

Egg Totals

Pennsylvania egg production totaling 678 million in September, was one million over August but six million under the figure recorded for September of last year. The number of layers was about 3 per cent less than last year.

According to the state Department of Agriculture the price picture is brighter on all scores.

Pennsylvania farmers received an average of 48.8 cents per dozen for eggs Sept. 15. This is 1.8 cents above the price received last September and 3.6 cents over the mid-August prices of this year.

Pennsylvania egg prices, according to a federal-state survey were well above the national average of 40 cents per dozen at the farm.

Prices received by Pennsylvania farmers Sept. 15 for liveweight chickens averaged 18 cents — a drop of half a cent a pound from a month earlier.

Commercial broilers, liveweight, averaging 22.5 cents a pound also dropped a half cent a pound.

Turkeys, liveweight, dropped from 35 to 34 cents a pound.

Milk Prices

September prices received by Pennsylvania farmers for milk at wholesale averaged 45 cents above a year ago, according to the department.

Pennsylvania milk sold at wholesale returned an average of $5.30 for one hundred pounds Sept. 15. This was 50 cents above the August average. Last year the price on Sept. 15 was $4.85.

According to Federal-State surveys, total September milk production this year was 512 million pounds in comparison with 509 million pounds in September 1956.

Pennsylvania milk production for the first nine months of this year was one per cent below the same period in 1956.

Child Killed by Auto Near Home

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Charles McAdoo, 7, was injured fatally Sunday night when struck by an automobile on Rt. 51 near his Robinson Twp. home.

The boy was pronounced dead at Ohio Valley Hospital of a head injury. Police identified the driver of the car as Donald E. Wilcox, 24, of Neville Island.

The national dish of Korea is salted kimchi, a pungent pickled vegetable combination made from one of three ingredients — a radish-like vegetable, Chinese cabbage soaked in brine, or cucumber.

Trucker Fatally Hurt in Accident

MEADVILLE, Pa. (UP) — Charles E. Sinn, 35, Union City, Erie County, was killed Sunday when his tractor-trailer loaded with lumber upset on Route 322 about eight miles west of here.

State police said Sinn died in Meadville Hospital of a fractured skull. They said his load had probably shifted on a curve.

Dear Mrs. Brown,
During our class play yesterday your son Ira was engaging in horseplay backstage. His clowning resulted in the scenery falling on stage. This disrupted the show and upset the children, so we had to call off the rest of the play. I would like to make certain that Ira's tomfoolery does not continue. Therefore, will you please come to see me so we can discuss this problem?

New Lotion Helps to Cure Acne

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Acne vulgaris is a major teenage problem. Many adults, too, are troubled by this skin disorder. Along with physical discomfort, acne frequently causes strong emotional problems as well.

Just a glance at my daily mail shows how very real these physical and emotional difficulties are.

I've written numerous columns in the past about various methods of treating acne. But because of the volume of mail I have been receiving on the subject in recent weeks, I thought you'd like to know about one of the latest treatments for it.

A hydrocortisone combination, a greaseless, invisible lotion which doesn't stain the skin, has given good results, according to a report in the Journal of the American Medical Women's Association.

This lotion reportedly speeds improvement more than routine therapy. It is composed of a number of ingredients of which the chief one is hydrocortisone.

Tests of the lotion were conducted by Dr. Beatrice H. Kuhm of Charleston, West Virginia, who reported "excellent" results in 44 per cent of those treated and "good" results in 46 per cent.

In these tests patients put a small amount of the medication on the entire face and other affected areas twice a day, rubbing it in gently.

In some cases, acne surgery and ultraviolet light were used every two to three weeks in addition to the lotion, while in others the lotion was all that was used.

The first evidence of improvement was that the skin became softer and smoother. In some cases this occurred within one or two weeks after the lotion was first used.

To get the full benefit from the medication, several months of treatment may be required.

Transit Strike Meeting Planned

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A new drive to settle Pittsburgh's week old transit strike began today.

Federal Mediation Commissioner G. Harry Young was to meet with union representatives and Pittsburgh Railways Co. Officials in an effort to break the wage deadlock.

The members of Division 85, Amalgamated Assn. of Street Electric Railway & Motor Coach Employes, went on strike last Monday to support demands for a 3-cents an hour wage increase.

The company has offered the striking bus and trolley operators a 1-cents-an-hour increase. Both sides have refused to change their positions.

Miss America Title Has Its Drawbacks

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP)—The toughest part about the Miss America job is becoming a former Miss America, says Bess Meyerson.

"I guess that every Miss America feels as I once did that all the doors are going to swing open once you go knocking for a job. But it's not like that all all and it was a terribly rude shock to me to find that being a Miss America meant nothing in terms of getting the job I wanted," says Bess who was Miss America '45.

"Some girls never get over it. They still expect people to fall all over them. I know one former Miss America who lives abroad because she says they treat her like somebody over there while over here, she's nothing. Hers is an unfortunate, destructive attitude, but I suppose it's one of the hazards of the title."

For most girls, the Miss America cockade is a one-way ticket to nowhere. Bess Meyerson is one of a tiny fistful of former winners who have remained in the public eye. Bess has been in the TV business for seven years now, four-and-a-half of them on CBS-TV's "The Big Payoff," a daytime entry.

"One reason why you don't hear about many Miss Americas is that although some of the talent is very good, on the whole the talent is not of too high a quality," says Bess.

"If a girl has any real specific talent—if she can sing, dance or act—the chances are she's caught up in her career by the time she's 18, 19 or 20. She has no time for something like a Miss America contest.

"Another reason is many of the winners are from small towns and are a little afraid of the big city. You can't really blame the stay-at-homes though — in their own towns, Miss Americas are heroines all their lives. But in New York, a Miss America is just another girl on the treadmill."

Bess, a native New Yorker, tried to disentangle herself from the Miss America title a year after she won it.

Came to Senses

"It was a turning point in my life," says Bess. "It happened at a hotel here when a woman said—'That's Miss America? She's not so pretty.' Well, that hurt terribly at first. But then I came to my senses and decided I wasn't supposed to be the prettiest girl in the world and it was foolish to go parading around as a Miss America.

"Actually though, you can't ever really divorce yourself from the title. It's like being Jackie Robinson who'll always be known as a former second baseman no matter how far he goes as a business executive. It's like being a former wrestling champ or flagpole sitter."

Bess has a daughter, Barbara, who'll be 10 in December. "I didn't think I'd ever be able to say anything but good about Miss America," sighs Bess, "but I think it must be a terrible thing having a mother who once was one.

"I hope that by the time she is 19 or 20, she'll have progressed so far on whatever her career will be, that she'll have no time for such a thing as the pageant. If there's one thing I'm sure of, it's that I don't ever want my daughter to become a Miss America."

Hollywood Problem in Adoptions

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—When Marie Wilson gave up the 3½-month-old baby she hoped to adopt this week, many movie stars re-experienced pangs of fright from their own adoption problems.

A high proportion of screen couples have adopted children. It's easy for them.

Their incomes are high. They're able to provide fine homes and educations for foster children. Among those who have taken foundlings into their families are Bob Hope, Joan Crawford, Roy Rogers and Dale Evans, Jack Benny, Dinah Shore, Fred MacMurray, Jane Russell, Helen Hayes and Marie MacDonald.

Some, like Hope, go through licensed agencies. They run the least risk of complications. The comedian and his wife adopted all four of their brood—Linda, 18; Tony, 17; Nora, 11; Kelly, 10—from "the cradle" in Illinois.

Loretta Young, an adoptive parent, plays an active part in the administration of the Holy Family Adoption Agency. Jane Russell helped form the World-Wide Waif Operation.

But most stars refuse to be quoted on their adoptions or even to discuss them off the record—not through fear of disturbing the children, but as a safeguard to protect themselves from "natural parents."

"The laws of California protect adoptive parents to a much greater degree when they adopt through an agency," said the director of one of the state's largest adoption organizations.

"Many movie stars avoid agencies because they dread the red tape involved. Some are too old to qualify. Some have unfortunate family backgrounds.

"Therefore, they take their chances on adopting through other means—friends, doctors or lawyers."

Blonde Marie and her TV-producer husband, Bob Fallon, would have had small chance of keeping Christine had they gone to court.

"We believe that further airing of the incident would have made a legal football of the baby and caused her more grief to everyone," Fallon said. Miss Wilson was so upset, she said, "I don't even want to think about adopting again. They ought to change the laws."

Couples Held In Two-state Larceny Spree

ERIE, Pa. (UP) — Two New York state couples, involved in a two-state bad check and larceny spree, were held by Erie authorities today.

Police identified the couples as Robert E. Chilson, 22, Waverly, N.Y.; Joyce Smith, 18; Arthur L. Brundige, 19, and Patricia Chase, 17, of Elmira, N.Y.

They admitted to passing 30 worthless checks in Elmira, 17 in Buffalo and two here, authorities said. They were arrested Saturday when a storekeeper became suspicious and called a bank to verify a check Brundige attempted to cash.

Chilson and the Smith girl pleaded guilty to fraud charges, police said, while Brundige pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny for stealing a coat off the storekeeper. The Chase girl was being held for New York juvenile authorities.

Teen-ager Falls To Death from Smithfield Bridge

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Fourteen-year-old Sandra Kolas, a Pittsburgh high school student, fell about 40 feet to her death into a piling hole from the Smithfield Street Bridge Sunday night

Sandra was with three friends when the accident occured. The bridge, closed to traffic because of a construction project, was darkened at its northern approaches.

The four teen-agers walked across the streetcar tracks to the side which is not sealed off. Sandra slipped off the edge of the tracks, according to her friends They called to her to hold onto the tracks but she let go and plunged into the water filled piling hole on the Monongahala River bank

Police and firemen recovered Sandra's body about 1 1-2 hours after she fell. She as pronounced dead at Mercy Hospital.

The bridge has been closed to traffic for several weeks to permit construction work on the Penn-Lincoln Parkway. One pavement is open to pedestrians but the other is closed.

Health Official Advises Everyone To Get Flu Shot as Soon as Possible

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP) — Go on and get that flu shot.

The protection it will give you is "well worth having" And the reaction isn't nearly as bad as it has been painted.

This advice comes from Dr. William H. Stewart, assistant to the surgeon general, U.S. Public Health Service. It is frankly intended to offset some of the bad publicity which Asian flu vaccine has been getting lately.

Public Health Service officials are disturbed about three ideas which are gaining currency among doctors as well as laymen They are the beliefs that (1) Asian flu is such a mild disease you don't need to bother getting vaccinated against it; (2) the vaccine doesn't offer much protection anyway; and (3) the reaction to the vaccine is often severe and sometimes worse than the disease itself.

"It would be a grievous mistake," said Stewart in an interview, "if anyone allowed these beliefs to stop him from getting vaccinated."

Stewart took up each of the three anti-vaccine arguments in turn and gave "the facts of the case."

"It is true," he said, "that in general Asian influenza is not a serious threat to the life of the normal, healthy person. But neither is it a disease which can be dismissed lightly as if it were on a par with a bad cold.

"It can make you pretty sick for several days, and leave you weak and protrasted for a good while after that. And there is always the possibility of complications."

During a recent epidemic at Fort Carson, Colo., routine chest X-rays of 1,100 soldiers hospitalized with Asian flu showed that eight per cent had developed pneumonia. Although all of the pneumonia victims recovered under antibiotic treatment, Stewart said, "that's a high enough rate of complications to show that Asian influenza warrants pretty close medical attention."

How Good Is The Vaccine?

When Asian flu vaccine went into production last summer, the Public Health Service was hopeful it would provide about 70 per cent protection against the disease. This expectation was based on experience with earlier flu vaccines.

The 70 per cent figure has not held up very well in the few controlled field tests which have been made since Asian flu shots became available for military and civilian use. The apparent effectiveness of the vaccine has ranged from about 46 per cent (in a test among Army recruits at Fort Ord, Calif.) to as high as 65 per cent (in a similar test at Fort Dix, N.J.) A test conducted by the Public Health Service among inmates of a boy's training school at Patuxent, Md., yielded a 50 per cent protection figure.

Stewart said all of these tests involved comparatively small numbers of people, and none can be regarded as a definite measure of the vaccine's potency.

"The important thing is that every test has confirmed that the vaccine does provide a substantial degree of protection," he said. "Even if you take the minimum figure—roughly 50 per cent—the protection is well worth having."

Reactions

Rumors about severe and even fatal reactions to the vaccine have been prevalent since the inoculation program began. Even in medical circles, concern has been expressed. At a recent meeting of the San Francisco Medical Society, for example, Dr. Lowell Rantz, professor of pediatrics at Stanford University, was quoted as saying that the vaccine might cause more deaths and disabilities than an Asian flu epidemic.

Stewart said the facts "do not bear out" these alarms

"More than 13 million doses of vaccine have been distributed, and the Public Health Service has yet to find one single case in which it has caused death or serious illness," he said.

Three deaths have been recorded among persons who had received the vaccine, he said, but "careful investigation indicates that these deaths were entirely coincidental and had no connection with the vaccine." Two of the victims were adults who had attacks of coronary thrombosis. The third was a child who had been suffering from acute rheumatic heart disease, and who died of a stroke.

Proposes Change

ORLANDO, Fla. (UP)—It should be two strikes and you're out at the old ball game according to the Florida State Baseball League. League directors Sunday authorized president John Krider to seek approval for a brief trial of the radical change from three to two strikes —plus walking on only three balls. Krider said his plan would help both pitchers and batters and would speed up the game.

Reds Visit U. S.

LONDON (UP)—A delegation of officials from the Soviet tourist agency Intourist were on their way to the United States today to attend the 12th General Assembly of the International Union of Official Tourist Bodies, Moscow Radio reported. The broadcast said the delegation is headed by V. M. Ankudinov, chairman of the Intourist Board.

Seniors Begin Scholarship Tests Tomorrow

EVANSTON, Ill. (UP)—Three-hundred-thousand high school seniors across the nation vie for four million dollars in college scholarships in a series of gruelling examinations starting Tuesday.

The huge talent hunt for worthy students is the third annual such program sponsored by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

Funds for the scholarships come from companies, foundations, professional societies and even individuals.

Tuesday's tests are only the beginning. They will narrow the field to 7,500 seniors who will enter the semi-finals of the program. By May 1, the original army of 300,000 will be winnowed down to the top 800 scholarship winners.

Merit scholarships provides needed funds for the student to attend the college of his choice for four years. Each case is determined on actual need of the individual.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain—without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute.

This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H.® At your druggist. Money back guarantee.
